Council Election Plan Survives

A bill requiring district election of four members of the Lincoln and Omaha City Councils survived a kill motion Monday and was awaiting advancement when the Legislature adjourned for the day.

The measure, LB122, sponsored by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, originally provided for district election in the Capital City only.

But lawmakers, on a 25-9 vote, accepted the Urban Affairs Committee's amendment broadening the bill to include Omaha.

Three At Large

Under that proposal, however, only four members of each city council would be elected by district. The remaining three members would run at large.

Committee Chairman Harold Simpson of Lincoln said the bill would "give all sections of the two cities an opportunity to be represented on their city councils."

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha attempted to kill the measure, arguing that there is "no justification" for the Legislature to "interfere" with cities governed by home rule charters.

His bid was rebuffed on a 15-20 vote.

Change Facts

Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha failed on a 12-18 count when he attempted to amend the bill to include all cities in the state.

Cities of the first and second class already elect their council members by ward, Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg said.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha said district election is "absolutely essential and necessary" if all people are to be represented on the city council.

Opportunity

"Here is an opportunity to seize one thread of the fabric of society and alter the design for the better," he said.

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha pointed to the large costs of running at large in a city the size of Omaha. Since district elections would be less costly, more citizens could afford to be candidates, he reasoned.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha protested the committee's change in the bill. "Omaha was taken in by the committee" without a public hearing, he said.

25 Required

Twenty-five affirmative votes will be required to move the amended version of LB122 over its first floor hurdle.

In other action, lawmakers handed 38-0 first stage approval to LB475, prohibiting the Lincoln School District from establishing a retirement system supplemental to the state teachers retirement system.

Advanced on a 31-5 vote was LB620, authorizing the State Game and Parks Commission to place endangered species of fish and wildlife on the list protected from hunting.

'Add Solons'

Chambers attempted to add state senators to the list of species "threatened with extinction every day." His motion was rejected on a 7-25 vote.

"Are we then to assume that (senators) are fair game 365 days a year?" he asked.

Penang, Malaysia (UPI) — Tengku Abdul Rahman, former Malaysian prime minister, left for Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, to take up his position as secretary-general of the Islamic secretariat.

McGovern Opens New Attack On FBI

Washington (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Monday he believes the FBI is under surveillance "virtually every political figure, every student activist, every leader for peace and social justice" in the nation.

The Democratic presidential hopeful, in a strong new attack on the FBI and Director J. Edgar Hoover, charged that President Nixon was afraid to remove the 76-year-old Hoover even though "he has become irresponsible."

"The obvious truth is that Mr Hoover is retained in office not out of a sense of confidence, but out of fear," McGovern said. "Out of political fear that the administration cannot afford to remove this 'sacred cow' from the public scene."

McGovern's fresh criticism of Hoover came in a speech at Lewis-St. Francis College in Lockport, Ill. He said documents stolen from an FBI office at Media, Pa., showed that FBI surveillance was widespread.

House Democratic whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana, who triggered the round of heated controversy over Hoover and the FBI, reserved an hour of time on the House floor for Thursday for a speech amplifying on his claim that the FBI tapped congressmen's telephones.

Boggs declined to tell reporters Monday what he intended to say.

Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole, a Kansas senator, defended the FBI and Hoover before GOP governors in Williamsburg, Va., saying Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and other critics of the agency were making "a concerted and deliberate effort" to downgrade it into "an American version of the Gestapo."

Quiz On Students 'Flunked' By Executive Club Members

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Monday was "quiz day" at Lincoln's Executive Club — but most of the members appeared to have flunked a six-question test on today's student at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campuses.

Offering to "scale the grades" for the good-humored losers was NU Dean for Student Development Russell Brown, who visited with the members of the business and professional service club about the modern NU student.

A show of hands indicated that the most "errors" came on the last of the six questions asked by Brown at the start of his luncheon talk.

Most said, in answer to that question, that they believed fewer NU students protested U.S. military policy while they were in high school than students have nationally.

But Brown said a survey of 2,500 of the 4,000 freshmen students on the Lincoln campuses indicated a larger percentage than nationally said they had "protested (military policy) in some way" while they were in high school.

Obviously surprising some of the club members, Brown said the survey also showed:

—90% of the freshmen were in the upper half of their high school class scholastically. "Thirty per cent were virtually straight A students in high school," the NU dean said.

—only 30% had lived on a farm (although Brown noted that's higher than the national average).

—the median income of the freshman's parents is below the national average for parents of college students.

—three-fourths of NU freshmen have been in an art gallery.

—fifty per cent call themselves "middle-of-the-road" politically, while 20% call themselves "conservatives."

Brown said his true-false quiz, while indicating what the modern-day student is like, is still no perfect description of the freshman student.

"It's very difficult to generalize about students,"

HEROIN USE EPIDEMIC

Thousands Of GIs Addicted

... 2 Congressmen Report

Saigon (AP) — Two U.S. congressmen said Monday 10 to 15% of American troops in Vietnam — 30,000 to 40,000 men — use high-grade heroin and addiction is of epidemic proportions.

They are Rep. Morgan Murphy, D-Ill., and Rep. Robert H. Steel, R-Conn., sent out by the House Foreign Affairs Committee to look into the drug problem around the world.

They have visited Turkey, chief suppliers of opium for the illicit U.S. market, Iran, and Laos and Thailand, the latter two a major source of heroin supplies in Vietnam.

Corruption Blamed

Murphy and Steel blamed corrupt Vietnamese officials and said the South Vietnamese government has done little about the problem.

They quoted the heroin use figures given them by the U.S. Command and added that 60 to 90 U.S. soldiers died from overdoses last year.

The drug is so easy to obtain in Vietnam that the U.S. Command is almost powerless in trying to control addiction, they reported. They praised the recent amnesty program of the U.S. Command. Under this plan, servicemen who turn themselves in for treatment are not prosecuted.

"The problem has reached epidemic proportions," Steel said. "Efforts to meet the problem have only begun and so far are ineffective. There are enormous implications to discipline and the effects on society when these men return home."

Gram For $1.80-$2.10

Murphy said he and Steel were approached by Vietnamese heroin dealers in Saigon and about a gram of the drug sells for $1.80-$2.10.

"These boys will need a lot of money to support their habit in the States," Murphy observed.

"Unless the problem is checked," added Steel, "it will provide a compelling reason to speed up the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam."

In New York City, authorities said the price for a fourth of a gram of heroin as from $2 to $7 depending on its purity.

The congressmen said they conferred with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, who told them he had received many complaints of addiction among young Vietnamese.

"Ky told us if he was put in charge of the problem that he could clean it up in two months," Steel said.

Half From Laos

Fifty per cent of the heroin is believed to come from Laos and the rest from Thailand and Hong Kong.

They left Saigon for Hong Kong. In Turkey, the two congressmen had their eyes opened by a trip to the opium growing province of Afyon. Afyon means opium in Turkish.

"These opium dirt farmers are completely unaware of the problems in America," Murphy said. "They are not hiding anything. They even named the province after opium just like we named Washington after the founder of our country."

American officials estimate that more than half the heroin that reaches the United States originates in the poppy fields of Turkey and have been pressuring the Turkish government for years to control the illicit opium market.

UNIQUE HOME MADE OF PLASTIC

The plastic home of Ron Kessinger of Golden, Colo., looks like something built for martian families. The multiple-domed structure contains 1,600 square feet with no beams. Inflated plastic balloons are sprayed with foam to a thickness of five inches. The balloons are then deflated after the foam has hardened. The floor plan, two intersecting circles, contains a kitchen, a living-dining area, two bedrooms, a bathroom and a utility room. Cost, exclusive of land, was approximately $28,000.

Council OKs Disputed Licenses

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday voted 6-1 to approve renewal of liquor licenses for the local Elks, Moose and Eagles organizations, casting aside the racial discrimination issue as grounds to act on.

Emphatically disagreeing with the majority vote was Councilman Pete Peterson, the lone black councilman, who said he felt "the city should be no party to racial discrimination."

Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis said she agreed with Peterson that the city should not be a party to racial discrimination but felt there apparently was not any legal reason for denying the applications.

City Atty. Dick Wood told council members that there was no legal basis for denial of the applications.

Not Concerned

Wood said that while the racial discrimination clause is a moral issue, the rules and regulations under which the State Liquor Commission acts do not cover such discrimination by private clubs as grounds for denial.

He said that the council would be on solid ground in denying a license to a restaurant which would discriminate since the civil rights laws do apply in this case, since a restaurant is a public place.

The city attorney told council members that their duty regarding liquor licenses "is to make recommendations under the Liquor Control Act on the fitness of the applicants."

Complaints Filled

The hearing before the council was required because complaints were filed under the provisions of the liquor laws requiring that applicants be of good character and in good standing in the community.

Both Mrs. Boosalis and Peterson expressed strong support for the council's adopting a resolution to urge the Legislature to change liquor license regulations so that the council could deny a license on grounds of racial discrimination in the membership of private organizations.

Councilman Merle Hale said he did not like segregation but regarded refusing a liquor license on those grounds as "not cricket."

Council Agrees

Councilman Bill Davidson said that he felt that the entire council philosophically agreed with Pete Peterson and hoped that such groups would change their membership policies.

Peterson replied that "what we have is legal discrimination."

Gary Hill, a member of the Human Rights Commission, appeared before the council, saying the majority of commissioners are on record urging denial of licenses if racial discrimination in membership is practiced.

Also appearing in opposition to granting the licenses were representatives of the Human Relations Insight League and Nebraskans for Peace.

Lin McNickle, president of the Human Relations Insight League, said that the organization "feels that over racial discrimination of this type should not be condoned or sanctioned by the reissuance of liquor licenses to those three fraternal lodges."

Issuing License

John Mason, attorney for the Elks, remarked that the city is not becoming a party to discrimination but is merely a party to issuing a license as outlined in the state laws, adding that the Elks are not guilty of any violation in this respect.

He added that the national organization requires each local body to have an "all-white" policy. It was brought out that there will be a resolution at the next national convention to let the local groups decide their membership policy.

Rollin Bailey, representing the Moose and the Eagles, admitted the Moose Lodge does have the "all-white" policy but said the Eagles at their last national convention voted to let local groups determine membership criteria.

Bomb Plot Foiled

New York (UPI) — Police checking an illegal-parking report in the Bronx found a car with a stick of dynamite wired to its ignition in an apparent setup for murder. Bomb-squad experts removed the dynamite and verified that it was "live." They said anyone attempting to start the car, probably would have been killed. The name of the car's owner was not made public immediately.

Nixon Sees Dignity In Emptying Bedpans

Williamsburg, Va. (AP) — President Nixon urged Republican governors Monday to help him reform a welfare system under which he said a man "can be rewarded for doing nothing." He said there is as much dignity in scrubbing floors or emptying bedpans as in any other work including being President.

In a speech that won praise from the two dozen GOP state and territory executives holding their spring meeting in this restored colonial capital, Nixon sought to increase pressure on the Democratic-controlled Congress to act on welfare reform. He called it "White House Priority No. 1."

The President's appeal won particular favor from California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who advocates requiring work or training for welfare recipients. "It is an idea whose time has come," Reagan told reporters.

Nixon called the present welfare system a monumental failure and said he favors "a system that will encourage people to take work. And that means whatever work is available."

Noting that some welfare recipients have objected to "menial jobs," Nixon said "I have probably done quite a few in my lifetime" and added: "If a job puts bread on the table and gives you the satisfaction of providing for your children and lets you look everyone else in the eye, I do not think that is menial."

Russia Orbits Possible Start Of Space Station

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union has orbited the first phase of what informed sources said would be a complex space spectacular involving several cosmonauts and at least two more spacecraft.

Details were kept secret, as usual in the Soviet space program, but the semi-official sources said the mission would be part of the long-range Soviet aim of building an orbiting space station.

Monday's launching initiated a new type of unmanned craft, the Salute, possibly the first of a series. It was described officially only as an "orbital scientific station." The shape of its orbit, however, put it in a path to receive more craft for joint maneuvers.

The government newspaper Izvestia featured the brief launching announcement in bold type on the front page, in effect telling the Soviet people to pay attention and watch for more to come.

West German space scientists, monitoring Salute progress from their observatory in Bochum, reported that a manned launch is the "logical" followup to expect.

The Salute craft was put into an orbit with an inclination of 51.6 degrees to the equator. This is the type of orbit normally used by manned Soviet spacecraft or the dummy ships they maneuver with.

A progress report on the Salute craft said it had completed nine orbits by 6 p.m. Moscow time.

"According to radio information," an official announcement said, "the systems and research instruments aboard the craft are functioning normally."

Details were kept secret.

Israel Gives U.S. Proposals

Jerusalem — Israel gave the United States its proposals for an interim agreement with Egypt to permit the reopening of the Suez Canal.

The proposals were understood to have contained the possibility of an Israeli withdrawal from the immediate vicinity of the canal under certain conditions, including an end to the state of belligerency and Israeli refusal to make any commitments to complete withdrawal.

Agnew Has Misgivings

Williamsburg, Va. — Vice President Agnew reportedly expressed misgivings about the recent trip to China by the U.S. table tennis team, at a meeting of the National Security Council. Agnew also reportedly criticized the journalists who accompanied the team, saying that their accounts of the trip had helped the Chinese score a propaganda victory.

Black Illegitimacy Dips

Washington — A Census Bureau study of illegitimate births showed that black women had fewer such births at the end of the last decade than at the beginning, which the rate for white women increased. Although the rate of black illegitimate births declined, its total exceeded that of white illegitimate births. The over-all rate increased slightly during the decade.

Lindsay Announces 4 Budgets

New York — Mayor John V. Lindsay announced four proposed budgets, the most drastic of which would eliminate 90,000 city jobs, in an attempt to force the legislature to restore its cuts of city funds and to increase the city's taxing powers.

8,250 Employees Laid Off

Albany, N.Y. — Budget officials announced the layoffs of 8,250 state employees, and also detailed reductions in such services as health, higher education and recreation. The announcement of the layoffs was taken by many observers as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's answer to Mayor Lindsay's warnings of drastic layoffs of New York City workers unless the state provided more money.

2,000 Uniformed Vets Demand End To War

Washington (AP) — Capitol Hill looked briefly like a forward staging area Monday as 2,000 veterans in combat garb demanded an end to the war in Vietnam and touched off a spring of protest.

It was a different kind of demonstration for Washington, which has seen hundreds of thousands of war protesters in recent years. The men were young but harder of expression and more serious of mind than the students who largely made up earlier crowds.

"Unlike the demonstrators of the past, we know from experience what the war is like," said the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, sponsor of a week-long demonstration. "The violence of Vietnam is something we vets understand," the group said in a statement, "because we were the ones who performed that violence."

They had spent the night on the Mall, mostly milling about because a court order forbade camping or sleeping, or in bed-rolls in nearby Potomac park. The court order was modified late Monday by an appeals court, allowing them to sleep, but not erect campsites on the Mall.

Gates Closed

They stirred early to march on Arlington National Cemetery, where they found the gates shut.

Outside the cemetery gates the Rev. Jackson H. Day, a Methodist minister who served as a chaplain with the 4th Infantry Division in Vietnam, led a service for the war dead.

Mrs. Pat Simon of Brookline, Mass., mother of a GI killed in the war, and Mrs. Nancy Hodge, a war widow, held wreaths, one for the allied dead and another for Indochinese killed.

Wreaths Left

Cemetery officials said later the demonstrators were told they could enter individually but not as a group. Spokesmen for the vets said a delegation of only five had wanted to take in the wreaths but it was barred. The wreaths were left before the closed gates.

"Some of those men risked their lives to recover bodies in the field," said former Navy officer John Kerry. "And they couldn't lay a wreath for men they packed up in body bags and helped ship to that cemetery, men they fought beside."

From the cemetery gates they marched back across Memorial bridge, past the brooding statue of Abraham Lincoln, down the mall to the Capitol.

Rally At Capitol

At the west front of the Capitol they rallied. They asked Congress to legislate an end to the war, investigate war crimes and provide better help for returning veterans.

Their camouflage fatigue uniforms blended into the broad green lawn so that a section of the walk and steps seemed to disappear.

Stop Wild Horse Slaughter In West, Boy Tells Congress

Washington (AP) — An 11-year-old Maryland boy urged Congress Monday to stop the killing of wild horses on the Western plains, but he received little encouragement from a House subcommittee.

Greg Gude testified at the opening of hearings on a bill the boy persuaded his father, Rep. Gilbert Gude, R-Md., to introduce. It would prohibit the killing or capturing of the relatively few wild horses and burros that still roam the West.

"My Dad and I have gotten about 1,000 letters and petitions supporting the bill," said Greg. "We even got a letter from Brazil," he added.

Nation's Heritage

His father said the free-roaming mustangs and burros should be protected on public lands as part of the Nation's heritage. The Bureau of Land Management estimates the number of wild animals has shrunk from about 2.5 million in 1900 to 17,300 mustangs and about 8,000 burros.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., author of a companion bill on which Senate hearings start Tuesday, says they have been used for target practice and slaughtered for dog food and fertilizer.

But at Monday's hearing by the House Public Lands subcommittee, Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., said a ban on capturing the wild horses would endanger the long-cherished practice of ranchers in his area of losing their domestic horses to the wild for breeding purposes and then reclaiming them — and others — later.

Army Relieves Colonel For Criticism

Saigon (AP) — The U.S. Army has relieved the commander of a helicopter battalion because he criticized the allied operation in Laos and allowed a television crew to film helicopters using napalm on enemy positions, it was learned Tuesday.

Lt. Col. Frank Miller of Orlando, Fla., has been reassigned to an obscure post as commander of Camp Frenzell Jones, a staging area 12 miles northeast of Saigon for troops phasing out of Vietnam.

A spokesman for the 1st Aviation Brigade confirmed that Miller is no longer commander of the 52nd Aviation Battalion at Pleiku.

The spokesman said Miller has been "reassigned" to Camp Frenzell Jones "for the best interests of the 1st Aviation Brigade." He said it was "an internal matter," and declined to elaborate. Miller declined comment.

But informants confirmed that he was relieved of command of the battalion, which he had directed for eight weeks. His battalion played a key role in the defense of Fire Base 6 in the central highlands, which had been under siege for more than two weeks.

These informants said Miller, a 25-year Army veteran who was an infantry officer in the Korean War and is now on his second tour in Vietnam, was relieved primarily for two reasons:

—He told an American Broadcasting Co. correspondent during the siege of Fire Base 6 that the allied operation against North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh Trail in southern Laos apparently was a failure. He said it had failed to meet its objectives of destroying Hanoi's supply distribution base. Miller said the North Vietnamese were proving this by sustained combat at Fire Base 6, which is about 14 miles from the tri-border region of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

—He allowed a television crew to film helicopters from his battalion dropping napalm on North Vietnamese positions around Fire Base 6. Miller flew the crewmen in his own helicopter to film the sequence.

Cambodian Premier Lon Nol Resigns

Phnom Penh (AP) — Cambodian Premier Gen. Lon Nol and his cabinet resigned Tuesday.

The announcement of the cabinet's resignation was given to newsmen by the outgoing information ministry, Keuky Lim, who said Lon Nol, 57, cited health reasons in his letter of resignation to head of state Cheng Heng.

Lon Nol said his health would not permit him to carry the burden of office. He has been both premier and minister of defense in the outgoing "government of national salvation," which came to power when Prince Norodom Sihanouk was deposed early last year.

Well-informed sources said Lon Nol and his cabinet were asked to remain in office until a new premier has been chosen.

Cheng Heng is expected to begin consultations soon on choosing successor to the outgoing premier.

Lon Nol suffered a stroke last February that left him partially paralyzed. He returned to Phnom Penh earlier this month from Honolulu where he received medical treatment for his stroke.

You May Need To Increase Withholding To Avoid Owing Uncle Sam Next Year

Washington (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service recommended Monday that millions of Americans increase the sums withheld from their 1971 paychecks for income taxes.

If they don't, the IRS said, they may have to pay large additional amounts to meet their tax bills next April.

The IRS said as many as 20 million taxpayers are not having enough federal tax withheld from their 1971 paychecks because of changes, effective this year, made by the 1969 Tax Reform Act.

The way to escape a big tax bill next year is to "arrange for additional withholding with your employer, who has been furnished information necessary for that purpose," IRS said.

Otherwise, noted one official, "it could be a real wild situation next year."

The IRS said taxpayers most likely to need extra withholding include:

—Employees who expect to earn more than $11,500 in 1971 and intend to claim the $1,500 standard deduction or itemize deductions totalling less than 13% of their salaries.

—Single employees who expect to earn $15,000 or more.

—Married employees who expect to earn $25,000 or more and whose spouses are not working.

—All working couples.

What happened, the IRS said, was that Congress increased the standard deduction from 10% to 13%. The withholding system allows a 13% deduction for all wage earners who don't get the low-income allowance.

But the standard deduction is limited to $1,500 on the tax return.

"The withholding tables assume that a single taxpayer with a $15,000 income will have 13% or $1,950 in deductions," the IRS said.

"But when the taxpayer fills out his return and takes the $1,500 standard deduction, or $450 less than the deductions allowed for withholding, he will generally wind up owing tax."

The same holds true for the taxpayer whose itemized deductions fail to add up to 13% of his income, the IRS said.

If both husband and wife are working, the agency said, the withholding system gives only one of them the low-income allowance when a joint return is filed.

The IRS said taxpayers should check their status, and if applicable either claim fewer exemptions or ask their employers to withhold additional money from their paychecks.

White Tornado Injures 40

Hereford, Tex. (UPI) — A glowing white tornado, one of seven prowling the west Texas flatlands in the darkness of night, cut a seven-mile trail through Hereford early Monday, injuring about 40 persons and causing $2 million damage.

"I can't believe there wasn't anyone killed," said County Sheriff Travis McPherson, 29, who sped one block ahead of the twister, warning sleeping residents with his patrol car siren.

Another tornado, laced with rain and hail like the funnel that struck Hereford 45 miles to the northeast in the Texas panhandle, smashed a farm home near Muleshoe, Tex., tossing its roof five miles and injuring two persons, including a 13-month-old boy.

"When I saw that thing go over me I would have sworn there would be several dead by morning," McPherson said. "It was a big white funnel. The darkness made it hard to see. In fact, the only time I saw it was when the lighting flashed."

Tornadoes also were reported during the night near Lubbock, Amarillo, Umparger, Dalhart and Dimmitt.

The Hereford tornado was so powerful it ripped up a telephone pole and ran it through a parked car.

More than 150 homes were destroyed or damaged. Damaged businesses included the local bus station, a cement plant and a farm machinery store.

The hole. It isn't the whole story.

The hole in the head of a Vantage cigarette is part of a very special filter. Because full flavor draws right through it. Easily. Without a lot of 'tar'.

But the hole's nothing without the rest of our cigarette. There's a great tobacco story in a Vantage too. Vantage didn't pick just any tobacco. We specially blended full-flavored tobaccos to work along with our filter.

Until Vantage any cigarette that gave you a lot of taste was handing you a lot of 'tar.' Until Vantage any cigarette that held back on 'tar' copped out on flavor.

Now, there's Vantage: the only full-flavor cigarette with low 'tar.' So now you don't have to cop out on real smoking pleasure. And that's the whole story.

Nebraska environmentalists hope Earth Day 1971 will be just like any other day.

For environmentalists, every day is Earth Day, and what pollution is doing to Nebraska's land, air, water and people is a day-to-day concern.

So instead of massive demonstrations on April 22 — the officially designated Earth Day — a low key observance has been going on all month.

Gov. J. James Exon has proclaimed April as Environmental Action Month in Nebraska and the Unicameral has passed a resolution urging the people of the state to participate in the activities.

Official projects include a statewide clean-up and tree-planting campaign along with the first recycling of glass and paper.

Glassphalt Project
About 59 tons of glass were collected during the week-long glass recycling campaign. The goal of the project is to gather enough glass containers — an estimated 60 tons — to pave a one block stretch of Omaha street with glassphalt.

Nebraska News

The paper recycling drive has been even more successful. About 165 tons of paper were accepted for recycling in Omaha during the first two collections and another is planned.

Many communities have jumped on the tree-planting and clean-up bandwagon. Scout troops throughout the state have agreed to help with the cleanup and students at many schools have been contributing money to buy trees.

The city of Blue Springs, a community of about 500, has ordered 300 trees planted in selected areas this month "as a starter."

Other city governments also are concerning themselves with environment in April.

The mayor of LaVista has proclaimed Earth Week April 18-24 and area scouts plan a massive community cleanup on the 24th.

Churches Concerned
Churches also are joining in the concern. In lieu of the regular Sunday morning sermon April 18, an environmentalist spoke at the Methodist Church in Blair.

Nebraska Wesleyan University is sponsoring a month-long series of programs on the ecological crisis in society and the development of a theological response to the crisis.

The largest scheduled environmental observance will be in Omaha, where the Quality Environment Council is sponsoring a five-night series of programs. Films, panel discussions and audience participation will be stressed during the programs.

The QEC is urging Nebraskans to plant multispecies lawns to reduce the damage when a disease strikes one species. This project ties in with the groups concern about the amount of fertilizer and pesticides applied to lawns.

Dr. Larry Holcomb, a Creighton University biologist, and QEC chairman, said of environmental activism, "For at least the people we're working with, this is a year-around thing."

Hopeful Sign
Some of the current activities will continue into May and Holcomb sees this as a hopeful sign.

At Kearney, for example, a high school ecology club plans to completely landscape the school grounds. A landscape architect is working with the club on the plans.

And a group of environmentalists in the Chadron area — which has state's only chapter of the Sierra Club — plans an outing on the Niobrara River in May to stir up interest in their opposition to the construction of a large reservoir on the river. The thrust of this year's Earth Day observance seems to be on action and solutions to already-established problems.

While the last two Earth Days were observed with large demonstrations designed to point up the ecological crisis, this year's observance is on a level of discussions, cleanups and trying to solve the crisis.

The city of Chadron is hauling away junked cars free of charge and giving them to a railroad for use as riprap to prevent erosion along waterways. A small park will be built downtown on leased land, playground-picnic areas will be built at a ball field north of town, and miniature shrubs and trees will be placed in planters.

Milk Cartons
An Omaha dairy has agreed to accept milk cartons for recycling and the Salvation Army and thousands of Scouts in the Omaha-area are helping with recycling and cleanups.

This year, no demonstrations are planned at the Omaha Public Power District's Fort Calhoun Nuclear Station now under construction, although those who picketed the site last year still fear the "thermal pollution."

One of the organizers of the picketing, Dr. George Grube of Dana College's biology department, said there's no need for a repeat demonstration this year.

"The function last year was to draw public attention to the problems emerging with our degraded environment," Grube said. "This has been done."

Omaha Couple's 2 Daughters Die In Hawaii Crash

Omaha (UPI) — Funeral services were pending here Monday for two daughters of an Omaha couple who were killed Saturday evening in a two-car accident in Hawaii.

Injured fatally were Barbara Jean McKenna, 30, and Beverly Elaine McKenna, 26, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph W. McKenna of Omaha.

Barbara Jean was a graduate of Duchesne Academy and the St. Joseph School of Nursing. She lived in San Francisco the past eight years and had arrived in Hawaii Saturday to visit her sister.

Beverly Elaine was a graduate of Marian High School and the Stanford University School of Radiology. She was an X-ray technician and had lived in Hawaii about two years.

MRS. HEITZ ... convinced woman's place is in the home.

Women's Lib 'Bunch Of Hogwash'

Schuyler (AP) — Mrs. Joseph Heitz has spent 30 years working in the newspaper business — but she still believes a woman's place is in the home.

"I don't think women are capable of holding executive jobs," says Mrs. Heitz, who has just retired at the age of 69 from a career on the weekly Schuyler Sun.

And as for women's liberation — "It's all a bunch of hogwash," she declares.

Mrs. Heitz, whose first name is Alcanthra, went to work for the Schuyler Sun in 1944. And despite her retirement, she continues to write a column called "Country Closeups."

She said she has gotten into many heated conversations with women who believe in women's lib.

But women have too much freedom, she declares. "I think the head in the home should be the father."

She said she believes women are asking for too much because they want the best of the old ways and the best of the new, too.

One of her friends sums up her philosophy: "She's definitely not a woman's lib—she's a man's rib."

Mrs. Heitz, who began her news career after her children were grown, says mothers should stay at home with their children when they're young.

"Too many women want to work just for extra money for clothes and things. I think this is wrong. When you balance it against children, you're balancing the wrong set of book ends."

As for her news work, Mrs.

Heitz has both her favorite stories and her most disliked tasks.

"When people get up there in age they become the forgotten generation. They're so happy when you take their picture," she says in explaining her love of writing about persons reaching their 90th birthday.

But among Mrs. Heitz' duties through the years was the writing of obituaries.

"I hated to write those obituaries," she recalls, "because I was burying a lot of my friends. Fifty per cent of them were my personal friends. If I hadn't known them, it wouldn't have bothered me so much."

"I guess I'm a little bit like Will Rogers. I can't say I've met many persons I don't like, just a few."

Banker Refuses Loans To FHA Borrowers

... 'Until Program Difficulties Cleared Up'

Grant (AP) — An unhappy crowd of 100 persons told the state director of the Farmers Home Administration that one bank has refused to make further loans to FHA borrowers until difficulties with the FHA program are cleared up.

State FHA director Kenneth Bowen received the word at a meeting in the Perkins County 4-H Building. A letter, signed by Jack Scott, vice president of the Keith County Bank in Ogallala, was given to Bowen with the request that he read it aloud.

The letter apparently came as a surprise to Bowen who said he thought the matter had been cleared up, but that he would meet with officers of the Keith County Bank.

Bowen's audience included some persons who have demanded his removal from office.

Some farmers have recently become angry with the FHA because of policies which the farmers allege have slowed down handling of loan applications, included harassment of borrowers, accelerated loan payments and damaged other credit sources since FHA has placed first claim on the farmers' money.

'National Policies'

Bowen told the crowd that the policies were national ones and that FHA directors were told at a recent California meeting that by 1980 some 80% of the FHA money would be for housing.

Agriculture is in a crisis today because grain prices are lower than they were 10 years ago, while the cost of farm equipment and other operating expenses have continued to climb, Bowen said.

Bowen said the economic squeeze has produced heavy demands for farm credit and that there is reason for concern over the farm credit picture.

Both Bowen and Reynold Cimiel, district FHA supervisor from Kearney, told the crowd that the FHA offices were undermanned, therefore slowing processing of loans.

Spectacular Crash Kills Wahoo Youth

Wahoo (AP) — A youth about 19 years old from Wahoo died Monday in a spectacular one-car accident about 4.5 miles south of Wahoo on U.S. 77.

County Atty. Robert E. Sullivan identified the victim as Rocky Lee Abbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Abbott of Wahoo. Sullivan said the northbound car apparently left the highway as it approached a railroad crossing, went into a ditch, hit the railroad tracks, flew into the air and knocked over a railroad sign post.

The car came to rest upside down in the ditch. Young Abbott was thrown from the vehicle.

The death raised the state highway fatality count for the year to 91, compared with 100 a year ago.

Washington (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission suspended Arthur S. Miller, a former official of Ling & Co., Inc., Dallas, from associating with any broker or dealer for 90 days on charges of violating anti-fraud provisions of federal securities laws.

Aurora Telephone Company Rate Hike Request Rejected

The State Railway Commission Monday unanimously denied the application of the Hamilton Telephone Co. of Aurora to increase its telephone rates.

The Hamilton application requested a $60,000 increase for a return of 6.7% on investment, but the commission said its audit indicated the proposed increase would result in a 8.2% rate.

In denying the company's application, the commission said in a released statement that Hamilton made loans to company officers totalling $26,000 which carried no interest.

Additionally, the commission said a $24,000 management fee was paid to Nedelco Inc., which is owned by the president of Hamilton Telephone Co. in addition to a salary of $19,550 paid directly from Hamilton funds to its manager and president.

The commission said it rejected a $11,000 depreciation claimed on cable television equipment, and indicated these funds might have better been spent in improving telephone service than in funneling capital assets into non-regulated ventures.

In its order denying Hamilton's application, the commission said, "Applicant's present rates and charges would produce operating income which, in consideration of the quality of service and additional earnings from CATV and other sources, is fair and reasonable."

Power Lines, Hogshed Target Of Enders Storm

Enders (UPI) — A tornado touched down about 3 a.m. Monday about eight miles south-southwest of Enders Dam and did some damage, according to Roy Miller, manager of the Southwest Public Power District.

He said the wind took out a span of 7,200-volt primary lines and destroyed a hogshed.

Several customers were left without power but Miller said service was restored by early afternoon.

Harold Stinnette, who farms four miles southwest of here, told Southwest officials he saw the funnel.

The storm was accompanied by much needed moisture. A total of .88 inch was recorded at the dam, and McCook, which is about 45 miles southeast of Enders, received a little over an inch.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One cannot leave his home for long without being impressed with the fact that ours is a nation greatly on the move. When your trip has taken you to Washington, D.C., you are impressed with the fact that people seem as plentiful as fish in the sea.

You would think that in all these years, no one was left who had not seen the White House. Such, however, is not the case. Lines last week leading to the White House four entrance stretched for blocks and it appeared that some people might wait in line all day and still never get inside the building.

The same thing is true of the Lincoln Memorial, Mount Vernon, Arlington National Cemetery and everything else in the Washington area. As the custodian of the artifacts of the nation, Washington has done a magnificent job and the people of the nation pour out by the millions to see what has been done there.

It is a marvelous thing that the American people are as mobile as they are. It is marvelous and, yet, it is somewhat of a disadvantage. It is both good and bad to have an automobile in the nation's capital city — good to get around in but impossible to park.

An automobile can take you into the general area you want to visit but the cars circle the major attractions like ants. They move at a crawl in three and four lanes, people hanging out the windows to get a look at something or to take a picture.

Millions of dollars must be spent on film supplies alone by the tourists in Washington. They could all do much better by buying up a good supply of post cards but this would not have the personal meaning to them that their own pictures do, even poor pictures.

And you can't get Aunt Minnie or your children in the post card picture of the Capitol Building. Traffic in and around Washington gets worse every time you visit the place and the local people complain about the same thing that the people of Lincoln complain about.

Driving down Connecticut Ave. in a cab, the cabbie proceeded to tell us that the street has been disrupted for a year now with utility construction of one kind or another. They just finish tearing up the street for one thing, he explained, and somebody starts tearing it up for something else.

In downtown Washington they are building a new underground subway system. We are not aware of where it is going but it has greatly messed up the area through which it travels.

Whether it is this or just the aging process, we are not sure, but the downtown area appears to be suffering from deterioration. An effort at a mall has been made along one street but it is an unimpressive thing, a kind of halfway approach to the subject.

Many parts of the city are badly deteriorated, filthy with trash all about and buildings in a dilapidated condition. The city is still a beautiful one in many areas and in many respects but our own personal opinion is that it is losing ground in terms of its physical appearance.

As we anticipated, nothing at all was settled at the convention of newspaper editors which we attended. In the area of the press and its workings, the case for objective news coverage received the biggest vote but with a large dose of subjectivity thrown in at various points along the way.

The press, like most other institutions, is groping to find out what the readers want and what its major responsibility is. The question is one that even the biggest and supposedly best among the press cannot answer with any real certainty.

The question of who should make war, the executive or legislative, was really not convincingly settled among a panel of congressional and executive experts. A leading youth advocate was unable to clearly define the so-called generation gap and the mayor of the city of Washington couldn't come up with an answer for the problems of the urban centers.

President Nixon was interviewed for an hour by members of the press but said nothing really new and a program on women's liberation left the subject mostly up in the air. We are left, as usual with considerable provocation but little by way of clearly defined objectives and the means of attaining them.

Limitations On Spending May Come Before 1972

WASHINGTON —If campaign costs rise as much in the next two decades as they did in the last two, America may soon be delivering its elective offices by default to the handful of people rich enough to run for them. The amount of money spent on local, state and national elections in this country climbed from $140 million in 1952 to $300 million in presidential election year 1968. As much as $400 million is predicted for 1972.

"Campaign reform is the overriding issue of a decent country," says Bert Bernhard, staff director for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine). "We can't go on like this." The problem drew wide public attention in 1970, as wealthy men spent their way to success at the polls. The bargages of 30- and 60-second television commercials permitted easy sloganeering but almost no serious discussion of campaign issues.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst told the Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Communications last month that spending reform is "a matter that transcends political partisanship." If he is right, then the transcendence has occurred since April, 1970, when 42 of 45 Senate Democrats voted in favor of limiting broadcast spending for campaigns and 32 of 40 Republicans voted against it.

Members of both parties were at least dimly aware that the Democratic party headed toward 1972 with a $9-million 1968 campaign debt, while the GOP was in considerably cozier financial shape. Democrats charged that politics was in the back of President Nixon's mind when he vetoed the spending limitation bill. But Nixon argued that it should have covered all types of spending. Now Congress is trying again, encouraged by the President's insistence that he favors comprehensive reform. Kleindienst spoke in favor of an over-all limit on candidate expenditures in his testimony.

Putting a ceiling on spending and contributions may seem the simplest method. But candidates can set up "dummy" committees to receive and spend contributions. The Federal Corrupt Practices Act of 1925 actually places very strict limitations on contributions and spending. Yet it is virtually unenforceable and no candidate has ever been prosecuted under it.

That is why most of the bills now being considered by Congress emphasize not only limits but disclosure — regular reports by candidates and their fund-raising committees telling where the money is originating. Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) says: "A disclosure requirement without a ceiling is innocuous and a ceiling without disclosure is innocuous. You've got to have both to be effective."

Other reformers argue that the solution to the problem lies not in restricting the opportunities of wealthy candidates but in expanding those of poorer ones, granting them free access to television and other sources of exposure. Then, it is argued, money will make little difference.

Advocates of change are hopeful that the Republican administration and the Democratic Congress may still be able to cooperate in controlling campaign costs in time for the 1972 elections. Otherwise, campaign spending reform may go down in history as an idea whose time came—and went—without any all-out attempt to achieve it.

'It Just Might Work'

Stokes Led The Way

It was back in 1967 that Carl Stokes of Cleveland became the first black man to be mayor of a large American city. Now Stokes is leaving City Hall, deciding not to run for re-election but instead become active in helping "locked in minority groups" beyond Cleveland "to better understand their role in politics and government."

Stokes has been mentioned by at least one presidential candidate, George McGovern, as a possible contender for second place on the Democratic ticket next year. And although he says he will be active in the 1972 presidential campaign "but not as a candidate for any office," aides say they think he would be available if called.

Stokes' performance as mayor probably is not as important over the long run as the fact that he became mayor in the first place. The political scene has changed in the four years since Stokes took office.

Charles Evers, the brother of murdered civil rights leader Medgar Evers and the only black mayor of a biracial town in the state of Mississippi, has become the first black candidate for governor in modern Mississippi history. He was unanimously nominated to enter the gubernatorial campaign this year by the state's biracial "loyalist" Democrats.

Evers opened the book on past prostitution and bootlegging activities when it became apparent he would win the nomination for governor. He said he wanted everything on the record, but not to hold against him now something that had in the past resulted from racism. Racism will not be a part of his campaign, Evers said in an appeal to both white and black voters. The significant thing is that Evers is a strong candidate for state wide office in a state in which that would not have been possible a few short years ago.

An Asset And Tribute

In a rather unique situation, Lincoln witnessed Sunday the dedication of new facilities on the part of both Madonna Home and Tabitha Home. These two religiously affiliated operations for the elderly are special assets for the city.

They are a tribute, too, to the determination of those associated with them to help solve the problem of the aged with which we have tried to cope in recent years. Both homes demonstrate the fact that care of the elderly has undergone a tremendous evolution in the past generation.

The thing of greatest significance in both homes is that obvious emphasis on continued productive and rewarding living. Madonna and Tabitha long ago discarded any idea that a home for the elderly was a simple caretaker operation.

What the two homes offer is a place to live, a place where the elderly can receive whatever special care and attention they need but, more important, can live as human beings with a purpose in life. Thus, advancing age at the two homes is but another stage in life, certainly not the end of anything.

The 132 new beds at Madonna and the 245 at Tabitha, along with other private homes in the city, do not meet all the area's demands but these two new and renovated facilities are a welcome recognition of the community's responsibility in the area of work with which they concern themselves. Both homes have long enjoyed a favorable image even far beyond the environs of Lincoln and their willingness to continue to enhance that image is a rewarding development.

Madonna and Tabitha are to be congratulated for the progress they have continued to make, for their understanding and foresight and for their service to humanity. We wish them every success in their future endeavors.

Washington Atmosphere Improves Somewhat With More Emphasis On Facts, Less On Politics

WASHINGTON — In the capital these days, nothing fundamental has changed but everybody senses that change is coming. The problems, the headlines, the arguments and the cast of characters are all the same, but the deeper tendencies or trends of events are a little different.

Not so long ago, the talk here was about the danger of China's entering the Vietnam war, the Israelis being pushed into the Mediterranean, the Soviets and Chinese fighting in Asia, the American economy plunging toward a depression, the militant students and blacks burning cities and tossing deans out of second-story windows.

Now President Nixon is cracking jokes with editors, of all people, and talking about Ping-Pong and even about visiting China; the trend is down if not out in Vietnam; the prospects of a limited Arab-Israeli agreement to open the Suez Canal are better; the first-quarter statistics on the economy and the stock market are encouraging if not satisfactory, and well-informed characters here are discussing, not IF Britain will get into the Common Market, or IF the United States will get out of Vietnam, or IF China will get into the United Nations, but when.

Of course, none of this is satisfactory to those who want the war, the recession, the inequality and the general cussedness of mankind to end overnight. For every move Nixon makes toward peace or John Maynard Keynes, he feels obliged to shake his fist at Hanoi and praise Adam Smith and the free market.

Accordingly, there is a kind of fantasy about the world of Washington these days. Words and actions seem to have little connection with each other. One day's White House statement is intended to impress Hanoi and contradicts the next day's statement which is intended to impress the peace movement — and press and television pass all this along to the general confusion.

I am against LB864. I hope to be among the number which bring about its defeat. And I oppose Terry Carpenter's dovish shooting rider. The vote should be "no" against any such bill.

I hope that friends of the mourning dove will take a few minutes and write in, against LB864. Everyone should contact his friends, urging them to write letters also to defeat the bill that would designate the mourning dove as a game bird.

Let's write our legislators and write to Governor Exon, urging defeat of the bill.

First Things First

Lincoln, Neb.

As one who is involved intimately with the development of Nebraska, I applaud Clair Callan's courageous and incredibly sensible analysis of the fieldhouse issue. The idea of letting football fans bear football costs while allowing taxpayers' money to go for higher priorities may not be popular, but is unquestionably the thinking of a mature and socially responsible mind.

Putting the welfare of Nebraska's old people, people who have in many cases spent a lifetime working in Nebraska, ahead of the admittedly more exciting, more dramatic, more ego-boosting football program would indicate that the ability to think as adults, putting first things first, is not restricted in Nebraska merely to a few men like Clair Callan.

Our Violations

Lincoln, Neb.

As I started to read your editorial in Friday's Star, I was glad to see that it pointed out the hard realities of Mr. Nixon's mishandling of the war and also America's weariness of the whole mess. However, as I read on, I realized that you felt our involvement was initially some sort of noble action on behalf of the Vietnamese that was later mismanaged. This disappointed me because by now we Americans should begin to realize that our participation in Indochina did not come about through noble or generous motives (though we citizens had only good intentions at home) but rather through over-reaction to an alien ideology and arrogant disregard for the common people of the land we intended to "defend."

After the Vietnamese defeated the French's colonial army (we Americans once did the same to the British in 1776) at Dien Ben Phu on May 7, 1954, the U.S. subsequently violated the resulting Geneva Accords by (a) setting up and supporting a government in the southern half of Vietnam and (b) backing that new government's refusal to hold elections in '56. This double violation served to politically divide one country into two — North and South — a split specifically precluded by the Geneva Accords of 1954, Articles 1 and 8; Article 6, Final Declaration.

If a doctor is not available:

1—Keep the victim quiet. Activity spreads the venom.

2—Apply a cinch, or pressure band, three to six inches above the bite. Some purists object to calling it a tourniquet, as the intent is not to shut off all blood flow (as with a severe wound). But use a belt, rope, scarf, or whatever is handy, drawing it tight enough to shut off circulation in the veins which, generally speaking, are closer to the surface than the arteries. You don't want to shut off blood flow to the bitten extremity; you do want to retard the return circulation, in the veins and lymph, from spreading through the body. Loosen the cinch for a minute or two out of each 15 minutes.

3—Cutting the skin at the site of the bite, small cuts an eighth to a quarter-inch long, promotes bleeding, and washing out some of the venom. Sterilize the knife by holding it in a match flame or wiping it with alcohol. Whisky or gin will do.

4—Do NOT give whisky or any alcoholic drink to the victim.

5—Remove venom by gentle squeezing and suction. Snakebite kits contain suction cups for this; or you can suck the wound and spit out the venom. ((But not if you have an open wound in the mouth, of course.))

6—Take the victim to a doctor or hospital. Carry him to the car. If he has to walk, have him do so slowly.

Poisonous snakebites, if treated within two hours, have a good prospect of less severe reactions.

When medical care is reached, the "three A's" are the essentials: a n t i v e n a m ; antibiotics; anti-tetanus injections.

Application of ice or cold compresses is NOT recommended.

Alaska, Hawaii, and Maine are the only states without venomous snakes, I'm told. In general rattlesnakes, copperheads, and cottonmouths account for 90 per cent of the bites. The small but dangerous coral snake is in the Southeast and Southwest.

For non-poisonous snakebites—these are usually harmless and appear more as scratches—simple cleaning of the area is all that is necessary.

Prevention: wear high boots and heavy trousers. And don't probe under logs, in rock piles, and such places with bare hands.

Carry a snakebite kit in known snake areas.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother who lives with us refuses to drink our water until it has been boiled. We have extremely hard water. She believes the minerals will coat her intestines, much as minerals form in the teakettle Violation upon violation put us in the position of (1) opposing the very forces — the Viet Minh — who had just thrown off French rule (again, as we once had done to the British) and (2) supporting those who had collaborated with the French colonists' unjust rule of Vietnam.

So thus our war to "free" the Vietnamese sprang from U.S. enmity for the actual people who had made Vietnam independent. This is why I feel somewhat ill when one of my fellow Americans refers to our "stopping aggression" in Southeast Asia and bemoans our lack of success. Since we caused the war in the first place by our violations of the Geneva Accords, we should not blubber about stopping anyone else's aggression or even about "honorable withdrawal." Besides, with our firepower and manpower, the war would have ended long ago if the Vietnamese people had ever really wanted that particular government in the south (Saigon) as we kept saying they did.

Need For Buses

Lincoln, Neb.

Lincoln needs an improved efficient public mass transit system that will be owned, controlled and operated by the city of Lincoln, providing good transportation and service. Such a system would provide an alternative to automobile traffic, parking congestion, cut down on air pollution, and provide transportation to work for persons who cannot afford the expenses of driving.

A "yes" vote for the bus bond issue in the May 4 election will give Lincoln a clean, modern, safe, comfortable public transportation system.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know what osteo degenerative joint disease is and how it acts. Is it a fatal disease? What are the latest stages of it? — J. H.

It's an elaborate name for the osteo or wear-and-tear type of arthritis. It occurs in older persons and usually involves weightbearing joints as knees, spine, hips. Knobs at the end joint of the fingers may be part of the process. The edges of bone get thickened. It is not fatal but can cause stiffness and aching.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The doctor said my daughter has vasculitis. What is it? He told her absolutely not to take aspirin. — D. N.

Vasculitis is inflammation of the wall of a blood vessel and very frequently is traced to some form of sensitivity. Drugs, including aspirin, sulfa and a host of others, can cause this trouble for some people. In other cases it may be a food sensitivity — chocolate, wheat, egg, or whatever.

Still other causes are exposure to cold and insect bites. In your daughter's case, I would assume that the doctor has found signs that she has a sensitivity to aspirin.

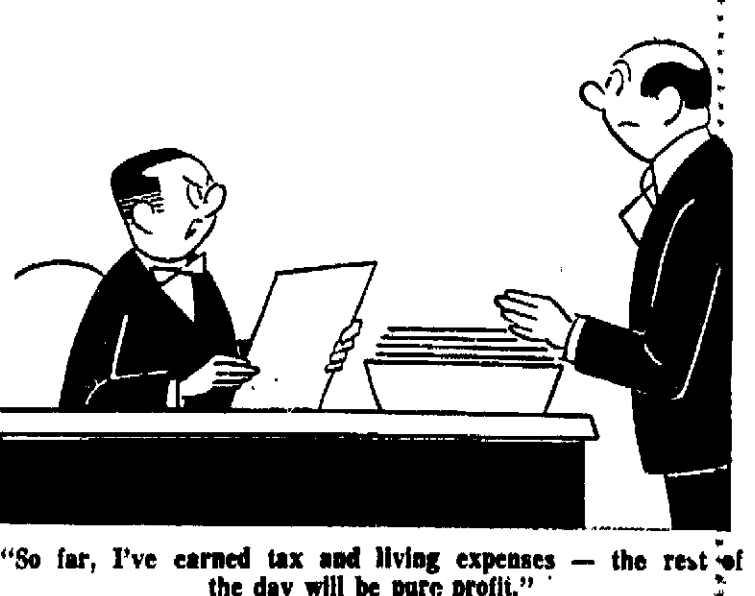

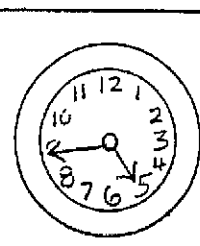

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

(c) New York Times Service

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Monday brought to the floor for debate next week Sen. William Skarda's bill to exempt food purchases from the sales tax.

The bill, LB567, strongly supported by Gov. J. James Exon, had been stuck in the Revenue Committee since its public hearing.

Skarda gained 26-21 assent to pull the bill from committee. His motion needed at least 25 votes.

If enacted, LB567 would redeem a campaign pledge made by Exon.

Relying on the food exemption plan, the governor vetoed an earlier bill to increase the food tax credit from $7 to $10 per person.

Senators Urged

Skarda urged senators to "think of the elderly pensioners, the large families and the unfortunate" in considering whether food purchases at the grocery counter should be exempted from the sales tax.

The reduction in annual state revenue would amount to between $4.5 million and $4.8 million, Skarda said, a revenue less which is anticipated in Exon's budget recommendations.

Last year, 140,000 Nebraskans received no food tax credit "because they didn't know how to file for it," he said.

Opponents of the bill argued that the food tax credit is a better means of providing some tax relief on food purchases.

Administrative Difficulties They pointed to administrative difficulties both for the state and the food retailer in exempting grocery sales.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, who proposed the increase in food tax credit, said he is concerned about the "slippage" which may occur if grocery stores fail to tax some items other than food when they tote up a customer's bill at a busy checkout stand.

And if food is exempted, then pressure soon will develop to exempt clothing, Burbach said.

LB567, which exempts food at the grocery counter, is unfair to Nebraskans who buy most of their meals at cafes and restaurants, he said.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said he will offer senators an opportunity to amend the bill into a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow voters to decide the issue in 1972.

No Relief Possible

With veto of the increased food tax credit proposal, Sens. David Stahmer of Omaha and Donald Elrod of Grand Island noted, the Legislature is faced with LB567 or no relief at all for food purchasers.

"Give the people this bone," Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha urged.

The issue is very important to Nebraska "politically, economically and sociologically," Sen.

Ernest Chambers of Omaha said. In order to provide tax equity, he suggested, the Legislature should "do away with the sales tax altogether."

"All The People"

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha also supported the bill, noting that "this is possibly the one and only time this Legislature can do something for all the people."

Exon "made an error" in vetoing the increased food credit proposal, Elrod said, but the Legislature should not make a further error by refusing to support the only available alternative.

Here is the vote on Skarda's motion to place LB567 on the floor for debate:

For: Carpenter, Chambers, Clark, DeCamp, Duis, Elrod, Epke, Goodrich, Kennedy, Keyes, Klaver, Kokes, Lewis, Mahoney, Marzetti, Morgan, Orme, Savage, Schmidt, Skarda, Swanson, Watron, Walwey, Ziebarth. Against: Barrett, Burbach, Carsten, Carstens, Craft, Hasebrook, Holmquist, Johnson, Kramer, Luedtke, Marvel, More, Proud, Simpson, Snyder, Stromer, Stull, Syas, Warner, Whitely, Wiltsie. Not Voting: Stahmer, Waldo.

Identification Procedures Measure Is Passed

By The Associated Press

Persons who have not been arrested could be required to submit to photographing, fingerprinting, appearance in police lineups and other identification procedures under a bill passed on final reading in the Legislature Monday.

Judges and magistrates are authorized to issue orders for obtaining the identifying physical characteristics under terms of Lincoln Sen. Roland A. Luedtke's LB568, passed 38-7.

The bill is designed to aid criminal investigations.

Affidavit Needed

The orders could be issued only upon a peace officer's affidavit showing that:

—There is probable cause to think an offense has been committed.

—Obtaining nontestimonial identification information on a particular individual or individuals could contribute to identification of the offender.

Covered By Act

The identifying physical characteristics covered by the act include fingerprints, palm prints, fingerprints, measurements, handwriting examples, lineups, hand printing, voice samples, blood samples, urine samples, saliva samples, hair samples, comparative personal appearance and photographs.

LB568 carried the emergency clause and takes effect the moment it is signed by Gov. J. J. Exon.

Voting against the bill on final reading were Sens. Ernest Chambers, Harold T. Moylan and Richard Proud, all of Omaha; John DeCamp of Neligh, Herbert Duis of Gothenburg, Richard Lewis of Holbrook, and Elmer Wallwey of Emerson.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Inflexibility Can Be Avoided

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Peterson is on vacation. During his absence his column will be written by author and publisher Henry Schmidt.)

By HENRY SCHMIDT

A reader writes: — One of my best friends, a lady who is about nine years older than I am, seems to be getting so set in her ways, so inflexible, that she's not much fun to be with any more.

It seems to be the same with her relations with her husband. They don't seem to be the pals they used to be.

Does this have to be one of the attributes of aging? I don't want to get that way as I grow older.

Answer: — No, it does not have to happen. One of the best ways to avoid rigidity is to check yourself now and then to see how many new ideas or activities or interests have come into your married life, say during the last six months.

Does your marriage partner have a strong interest that you don't share? Try sharing it. Go fishing with the brute, if that's what he likes. Take some dancing lessons if you both might like that. Pick out some new and untried activity and explore it together.

In marriage where one partner simply grows older, while the other keeps growing in maturity, in social and the business stature, a cooling off or even a breakup is often on the horizon. The man has the stimulation of his business. He keeps increasing his horizon and the wife often starts to contract.

Don't you let that happen. Keep up with him and you'll keep together.

A reader writes: — My husband and I want to work out the future disposition of our estate and relax in the knowledge that it is taken care of well in advance of the day of reckoning. Have you written on this subject?

Answer: — No, not recently. There are a number of ways you can work the disposition of your estate.

1 — Through you will, you can make outright disposition of your assets.

2 — You can make outright gifts of parcels of your estate during your lifetime.

3 — You can create a "living trust" by transferring your estate, or part of it, to a trustee. The income from the estate is paid to you during your lifetime or to a specified person or persons for life, other persons to get the principal later.

The reason some retired persons have established a living trust is so that they can live a free life and not be bothered by the responsibilities of managing property and investments, yet, be assured that they will have income protection against old age.

4 — You can protect your spouse and other dependents by assuring them an income for life by the use of a "testamentary trust." This is done through a trust established by your will. The reason for creating a testamentary trust instead of giving the assets outright is to protect the beneficiary against his or her inexperience or folly in the management of the estate you created, and for substantial tax benefits.

Afternoon Wedding

At a 1:30 o'clock ceremony on Saturday afternoon, April 17, the wedding of Miss Janice Bachman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bachman of Pierce, and Richard Krueger of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Krueger of Blue Hill, took place at St. Joseph's Church in Pierce.

The attendants, including Mrs. James Broer of Omaha, the matron of honor; Mrs. Robert Cox of Kearney, the bridesmatron; and bridesmaids Miss Shirley Bachman and Miss Carole Krueger of Blue Hill, wore alike floor-length frocks of pastel pink crepe, veiled with chiffon, which were designed in the Empire mode. Above the silhouette skirts, completed with satin trains, the fitted bodices were fashioned with high collars and Bishop sleeves.

Robert Corner served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Roger Schunk of Hastings; George Corner of Lincoln; David Bachman, Richard Chilvers of Omaha, and Tom Johnson of Blue Hill.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white organza accented with Venice lace, which patterned the neckline and cuffed the Bishop sleeves of the sculptured bodice, and was repeated in a front panel, which extended from the throatline to the hem of the silhouette skirt and which was centered with minute flowerettes of pink ribbon. The lace also bordered her mantilla veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis.

The bride is careering with the Lincoln Journal and Star Printing Co., in Lincoln. Mr. Krueger is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Delta Sigma Pi fraternity.

Naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Connie Royal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Royal, whose marriage to David B. Smith will be an event of Friday evening, April 30.

Miss Cindy Royal will attend her sister as maid of honor and the bridesmatrons will be Mr. Smith's sister, Mrs. Ali Salem of Alexandria, Egypt, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Steve Smith of Fort Hood, Tex. Serving Miss Royal as bridesmaids will be Miss Donna Weitzel of Shreveport, La., and Miss Joni Bradford. Mr. Smith's niece, Miss Kim Smith, will be flower girl.

Lighting the candles for the 7 o'clock service at Sacred Heart Church will be Randy Royal and Ricky Royal, brothers of the bride-to-be.

Steve Smith of Fort Hood, Tex., will serve his brother as best man, and the groomsmen will include Bob Jarrett, Brad Schmidt, and Mrs. Smith's brothers, Dan Smith, and Larry Smith of Omaha. Seating the guests will be John Royal, Miss Royal's brother; Mickey Smith brother of the bridegroom-to-be, Joe Vlock both of Omaha, and Joe Jablonski of Pueblo, Colo. Todd Bradford of Phoenix, Ariz., will serve as ring bearer.

The popular soon-to-be bride was presented with a linen shower Tuesday evening, March 30, when her aunts, Mrs. Joe Royal of Palmyra and Mrs. Albert Ullsperger; and her cousins, Mrs. Jerry Beecham and Mrs. Tom Hart, entertained a group of relatives at the home of Mrs. Beecham.

On Sunday afternoon, March 21, Mr. Smith's sister-in-law, Mrs. Dan Smith, was hostess in courtesy to Miss Royal at a personal shower held at her home.

Bridal courtesies for Miss Royal included a party on Saturday afternoon, April 17, when Mrs. Robert O'Brien was hostess at a miscellaneous shower which was held at the Goodyear Clubhouse.

Miss Royal's aunts, Mrs. Roy Bradford and Mrs. Leo Bradford, will be hostesses at a miscellaneous shower for the bride-elect on Wednesday evening, April 28. The party will be held at the home of Miss Royal's grandmother, Mrs. Fred Bradford.

The bride-to-be and her fiance will share honors on Thursday evening, April 29, at a prenuptial dinner for which Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Smith of Omaha, will be host and hostess at Lee's Restaurant following the wedding rehearsal at the church.

Miss Royal attends the Lincoln School of Commerce.

MISS PRISCILLA MEANS

Greek letter row on the University of Nebraska campus will have an interest in the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. William B. Means of Omaha, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Priscilla, to Charles Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carpenter of Omaha.

The wedding is planned for Thursday, June 3.

Miss Means is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority of which she is serving as treasurer.

Mr. Carpenter also is a senior at the University of Nebraska and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Officers Elected

When the members of PEO Chapter BR met recently, it was for a very special purpose—the election of officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Gordon Pauley soon will be taking over as president, and the remainder of the cabinet of officials will include Mrs. C. W. Swingle, vice president; Mrs. Carl Joliff, recording secretary; Mrs. William F. Nye, treasurer; Mrs. Byron Tullis, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. C. Groff, chaplain, and Mrs. G. O. Cast, guard.

Home Repair Was Topic

At the recent meeting of the Odds and Ends Extension Club which was held at the home of Mr. Elton Lux with Mrs. Harry Weakly as assisting hostess, the lesson was "Lady Fair Does Home Repair." Mrs. W. E. Lyness and Mrs. E. M. Jeffery, presented the program, and demonstrated simple repairs that can—and should—be done around the home.

Mrs. H. H. Whitlock reviewed Tom Neale's novel, "An Island to Myself," and she also read some excerpts from "Simple Pleasures" by Al Capp.

An explanation of LB948, the proposal to raise the tax on cigarettes, was presented by Mrs. Jeffery.

The club's next meeting will be held on May 26, when the members will have an excursion and luncheon.

Daisies, mushrooms, turtles, and ladybugs are being used for decorations of every kind — including accessories, purses, salt and pepper shakers, and on and on.

The nature decorative motifs are appropriate, especially this week which has been dubbed "Earth Week," and even the children are getting in the swing of things. We heard of one suburban lad who requested a birthday cake in the shape of, and frosted to resemble, a turtle.

The turtle cake was for Tim Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hopkins of Park Manor, who celebrated his third birthday last Sunday, April 18.

The birthday boy shared his cake and birthday with his relatives including brother, Douglas; uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Dorman, and their children Jeny and Kim and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nickeson, and their daughter Stephanie; and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Dorman and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hopkins, Sr.

Retracing our steps just a bit, we found that the Easter bunny made a stop-off at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry A. Witt, during his hoppy trip through suburbia.

With him, our furry friend brought some of the Witts' relatives who spent the day and gathered together for a family dinner. Among the guests were Mrs. Witt's mother, Mrs. Goldie Zajicek and Mr. Witt's parents, Maj. and Mrs. Olin Witt.

Of course, Lisa and Lori Nichole were on hand to serve their mother as assisting hostesses at the family affair.

With the coming of nice weather that gives a hint that spring might be here to stay, suburban dwellers are beginning to think of mini and maxi escape vacations.

Because of one vacation, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Swanda and Lauri, Jack, Joe, and Jaimie Lou, all of Happy Hollow Heights, are in for some visiting and baby sitting!

Mr. and Mrs. Swanda's son-in-law and daughter Capt. and Mrs. Lyle Street, received the "ok" for the services' coveted "R. and R." — better known as rest and relaxation. So, Mrs. Street said her good-byes Monday and left for Hawaii, where she will join her husband for a five-day island vacation.

Meanwhile, back in suburbia, Captain and Mrs. Street's children, Sean and his small sister Keira, who was four months old on Thursday, are in for a vacation of their own in Lincoln with Grandpa and Grandma and their two aunts and uncles.

Another birthday may bring an occasion to forget the years passing by, but when you can still count how old you are on two hands — and better yet, just one hand—it is bound to be a carefree event.

Today there will be such a celebration at the Bethany Park Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil White and their children, Susan, Patti, Phil, Cathleen, and Mary Jane.

The festivities revolve around a member of the family who will be counting to four today and that person is none other than Mary Jane.

Of course, the afternoon party-goers will be treated to games and nothing else but the "real thing"—ice cream and cake.

suburbia

Stucklik, Marcia Clark, Kelly Sue Butts and several of the White children will be attending the suburban party, participating in all the games, enjoying the traditional birthday food, and naturally helping Mary Jane make the best wish of all before blowing out those four candles atop the birthday cake.

What better way than to spend a fresh spring day in suburbia than celebrating someone else's birthday!

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Whitmer of Eastmont had two most delightful guests during the Easter vacation. Their daughter, Miss Jane Whitmer, who is a senior at the University of North Colorado at Greeley, brought a schoolmate home for the visit. The guest was Miss Linda Rideoch of Seal Beach, Calif. The visitors, both members of Sigma Kappa Sorority, were entertained at a family dinner on Easter Sunday before their return to school.

Wellington Greens took advantage of the seasonable weather on Sunday, April 18. All residents were invited by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thorson and Mrs. Juanita Spillman to join in a covered dish Scotch Foursome. The guests at this "pitch-in" party each brought one covered dish and their golf clubs. The golf session meant a round on the Wellington Greens course in foursome fashion, naturally. Following the golf game, during which "rain-drops kept falling on their heads" for a short time, the couples who attended the event shared the large variety of food.

Abby: very rude

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please don't use my name, but DO print this because I think it needs an airing:

I recently sent out invitations which read, "Cocktails and Buffet, 7 p.m."

I thought this clearly indicated that we expected our guests to stay for the evening. Everything went fine thru the cocktails, then suddenly there was a couple-by-couple exodus, with the following excuses: (1) We have to play bridge later; (2) We have to go to a company party; (3) We left our children home alone; (4) We promised to stop by at another party; (5) We didn't know you meant for us to stay the whole evening.

Those who remained felt uneasy. We felt deserted. I think people should choose between invitations and not try to double up at the hostess's expense. What do you think?

—LET DOWN

DEAR LET: I agree with you. If one has a conflict, he should telephone the hostess in advance and ask permission to leave early. But to accept an invitation and exit prematurely is rude.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower who is engaged to marry a woman who has been widowed twice.

She has MY picture sitting on her mantle right between the pictures of her two deceased husbands. She says that after we are married, if I want to put a picture of my deceased wife up there, it will be all right with her.

I don't see the point of having such a gallery, but if you think it's okay, I'll go along with it.

—PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Whose pictures are displayed there is a matter of personal preference. If it gives your lady a feeling of comfort or pleasure to have the likeness of The Old Guard around, and if it's okay with you, then it's okay with me!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Opening lead — six of clubs.

The success or failure of a finesse is, generally speaking, only a matter of luck, and for this reason alone one should always make it a point to look for alternative methods of play that offer a greater prospect of success than a finesse.

Here is a type of hand where many declarers would go wrong. West leads a club and East cashes the A-K before returning a heart.

Tempting as it may be to finesse, it would be entirely wrong to do so. The fact is that a heart finesse, whether successful or not, has nothing whatever to do with making five diamonds. A heart finesse would simply endanger the contract without increasing by one iota the chances of making it.

The final outcome depends on whether West has the king of spades, and the location of the king of hearts has absolutely nothing to do with the price of cheese.

South should go up with the ace of hearts, draw trumps, and take a spade finesse. When it succeeds, he returns to his hand with a trump and takes another spade finesse. He then discards the queen of hearts on the ace of spades to make the contract.

Of course, if your one and only concern was to make all the heart tricks possible, you would finesse the queen, but in this instance your goal is to make five diamonds, not the maximum number of heart tricks.

It is true that if East has both major kings you can save a trick by finessing the heart, but that is a very insignificant factor under the circumstances. Making the contract is always the first consideration.

Solons Nix Blue Lights

By The Associated Press

The Legislature decided Monday that radio or television mobile units should no longer be authorized to use flashing blue lights on their vehicles.

The provision of present law which allows these units to use such lights was removed by a 31-5 vote on an amendment to a pending LB365. The bill started out simply to extend the blue light privilege to full-time news photographers.

Removal of the blue lights privilege was recommended by the Public Works Committee, which gave public hearing to the bill. The measure was rewritten by committee amendments and other amendments offered by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln to authorize use of flashing red lights by volunteer firemen, law enforcement officers and rescue squads.

The rewritten bill was advanced from general file on a 37-2 vote, and will show up later for final reading.

Sen. John De Camp of Neligh, who sponsored the original bill, said the Legislature "took a bill which was a bull and turned it into a steer."

He complained that the rejected news photographer provision might have affected only about two dozen persons in Omaha and Lincoln, but that the Legislature has turned around and in the amended bill, allowed 14,000 volunteer firemen to "run around" with red lights.

Handicapped Busing Bill Sent To Floor

A bill clarifying the responsibility for transportation of handicapped children was sent to the floor Monday by the Legislature's Public Health Committee.

The measure, LB690, chiefly sponsored by Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, as amended provides that the home school district would pay the cost of the child's transportation to a place of special education regardless of whether the child leaves the resident district.

Retained in the law is a maximum of $200 to be paid annually to parents of handicapped children for transportation. An exception is the case where more than one handicapped child is transported to more than one location in which case the $200 maximum applies per location.

The committee killed a related bill, Omaha Sen. Richard Proud's LB869, which would have removed the $200 limitation.

The committee also unanimously approved a motion to sponsor a bill dealing with barber licensure.

The measure provides that a veteran with 18 months of barbering experience in another state or country must be granted a license to practice in Nebraska without being required to take the normal oral or written examination.

RECESS HALTS DEBATE ON CLASSROOM TELEVISION FUNDING

Brezhnev Welcomed

Sofia (UPI) — Thousands of Bulgarians turned out to welcome Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev on his arrival by train from Moscow to attend the party congress of Russia's most loyal ally.

The Legislature began debate Monday forenoon on the question of funding the instructional or classroom television portion of educational television programming.

However, the noon recess halted debate on Omaha Sen. David Stahmer's LB1002, which would revise the apportioning of state school funds to include instructional television (ITV). At present, schools which use ETV for classroom purposes pay the cost of programming.

The lawmakers decided Monday afternoon to consider the matter at a later date.

Another pending measure, Lincoln Sen. William Swanson's LB404, was scheduled for general file consideration Monday but the Stahmer bill was taken up first. Swanson's bill would authorize the Education Department to use appropriated funds for ITV.

Stahmer told the senators

Nebraska was the only state which does not use state funds to support ITV.

Opposing the bill, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff used the opportunity to criticize educational television in general.

Uruguay Ambassador Expresses Confidence In U.S.

The ambassador of Uruguay, Dr. Ector Luisi, told the Nebraska Legislature Monday that from the vantage point of a foreigner, he is "very confident of the future of this nation."

"The United States of America is a pluralistic society," he said in a brief address to the lawmakers.

"It is a viable, dynamic and strong political body. I believe perhaps one of the important sources of your strength lies in the diversity of the elements of the American society."

Dr. Luisi served as spokesman for a group of foreigners, delegates to a midwest conference of world affairs, who visited the Legislature in group Monday. The conference was held at Kearney.

Too much pilikia — trouble, brudda. A young lawyer named McAteer, published a brochure on pollution.

Who is polluting Hawaii? The million tourists a year said McAteer.

The Hawaii Visitors Bureau reacted to this as though you'd slapped their mothers. Auwe!

The Waikiki Improvement Association (who dey, brudda? The people who "improved" Waikiki with wall-to-wall high rise?) said: "The brochure deals in fantasy rather than reality, misrepresentation rather than truth, inaccuracy rather than fact."

(Love those triple-barreled blasts!)

Anyway, young McAteer shook them up. Ralph Nader immediately sent one of his chief Raider lieutenants to Hawaii to help McAteer.

The legislature held open meetings.

People testified and called each other harsh names.

The University of Hawaii got in the act — they published the McAteer blast.

Too much fun. (And no doubt some needed consideration.)

Too many cars. An island friend of mine said: "Four out of five residents of Hawaii live on one island — Oahu, that's Honolulu."

"That means a lot of concentration of autos here. And the fact is, we've found out we've reached a saturation point."

"There just isn't room for any more cars on this island."

"At morning traffic hours, we get smog along Waikiki."

At night, Kalakaua Avenue is thick with gasoline fumes. Kalakaua parallels the beach at Waikiki. The beach is a few feet away, but you don't see it. It's walled by with high rise.

Hawaiian teen-agers drag Kalakaua at night. Bumper to bumper. Round and round the block. The gas fumes are locked in by the high rise — and it's not the fragrant Hawaii the tourists came to see.

"Tourists are becoming disenchanted with Hawaii because of pollution and overcrowding and rising costs," said McAteer.

"I suppose the tourist is enjoying Hawaii less," said the man from the Hotel Association.

"Just as he is enjoying Canada and Acapulco and the Caribbean less. However, we are not on the brink of an environmental disaster."

Gus Lieske, Exon's Budget Expert, Denies Conservative Label

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer
 A 31-year-old Nebraskan with a doctor's degree in education, Gus Lieske, serves these days as Gov. J. James Exon's budget authority and spokesman.

In the struggle with state agencies which would like more money than Exon would like them to have, Lieske has been in the front lines.

Appointed in December to head the State Department of Administrative Services (DAS), itself a key department, Lieske has shouldered at the same time the job of providing budget counsel to a chief executive pledged to keep tax rates in check, spending demands notwithstanding.

'Extreme Conservatives'

"I'm sure we've been characterized as being extreme conservatives, somewhere way out on the right wing with buttonhook shoes and the whole bit," says the Kearney native.

"But I think if you look at the emphasis of the budget, you'll find the places we put the money tend to be moderate kinds of places and in some cases tend to be liberal.

"People say if you take a strong fiscal position, you become a conservative, and that if you're a liberal, you spend money. I think that's a misnomer.

"I think you can be a liberal with a strong fiscal position or you can be a conservative with a lousy fiscal position, which really means you waste money."

Lieske, who worked four years in the State Department of Education while working on his doctorate, brought a background in education to the budget-making job.

"Our concern for quality education is not a conservative issue, you know," he said in an interview. "Liberals tend to be concerned about improving the quality of education. I think the difference is that many liberals assume that the way you improve quality is to spend more money. We think that's not true."

Lieske is the fourth man to head DAS, which was established in 1965 during the Gov. Frank Morrison administration. The department is divided basically into three sections:

—Budget and accounting, recently merged by Lieske, which makes budget recommendations and, once approved, monitors and administers the budget while handling the accounting for all state agencies.

—Data processing, for all state agencies except the University of Nebraska and the Roads Department.

—General services, including purchasing, telecommunications, surplus property, Capitol Building and grounds, central duplicating, mail and the telephone system within the Statehouse.

Previous Experience

Lieske did not come into the job cold, however. He spent a year and a half learning the internal financial workings of state government in the legislative fiscal analyst's office.

"I got to be familiar with a large number of agencies," Lieske explained, "even outside the ones I was responsible for. I'd spent a year and a half getting ready for a higher education budget. I'm sure I couldn't have made all these recommendations in a month or two."

Lieske says he has found the job takes a lot of time, often at the expense of seeing his family or enjoying recreational activities.

"When I had time, I liked to go hunting and fishing," he said. "But I haven't had a chance to do much of that. I haven't played any golf for several years now. I'd like to try that again."

Lives In Milford

The former Cozad High School counselor lives in Milford, where his wife Sharon taught school for one year. The Lieskes have two girls, ages three and nine months.

He said he likes living in a small town and doesn't mind commuting. "The drive at night down the Interstate is a fairly relaxing drive, gives you a chance to unwind on the way home."

Lieske earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees from Kearney State College, interrupted by two years at Cozad High School, where he established the school's first counseling and special education programs.

In 1965 he finished work on his master's and went to work for the Education Department while picking up credits toward his doctorate at the University of Nebraska. In August 1969 he was granted a doctorate of education.

Lieske admits that running DAS has turned out to be an even bigger job than he expected, but feels with the budget out of the way, the worst is over for now.

"I'm assuming it's going to settle down to a little better-sized job."

City Voting Ward Reorganization Study Is Undertaken At Beatrice

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice — The first step toward the reorganization of city voting wards was taken by the city council Monday night at the urging of a young local attorney.

John Carlson noted that under LB368, recently passed by the Legislature, the city must conform to 1970 census equalization figures or elect its councilmen at large. Cities have until Jan. 1 to reorganize if necessary.

"I feel it would be disastrous for us to hold at-large elections," he stated. He suggested the city attorney decide whether the redistricting basis be by total population, total voters or total registered voters.

However, Louis Bates, a county supervisor, said the federal "one man-one vote" decision actually applied to an area's total population. He explained one possible plan which would divide the wards into populations of approximately 3,097 each.

City Attorney Earl Ahlschwede was appointed to a steering committee to study the matter. Carlson is also a member, along with councilmen Dr. S. H. Shick, Larry Probst, Rod Moore and Harley Kollekowski.

On another matter, the council discussed the possibility of permitting trailer houses in the town's Blenover district and referred the matter to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The action followed a request from Mrs. Robert Pangborn to locate a trailer at 1109 Ashland Ave. Building Inspector John Kuhn suggested the town is "missing the boat" by not permitting trailers in some sections.

The council also:

- approved bottle club license for new owners of Broken Arrow Lounge, Gwendolyn and Lee Bradley.
- disapproved renewal of on and off sale beer license to Rose Marie Wright, since she is not a legal resident of the community as required by state law.
- equalized assessments for Paving Dist. 235, 237 and 241.
- accepted $132,239 bid of Estate Construction Co. submitted April 5 on Paving Dist. 238, 239 and 248.
- placed on first reading ordinance to change zoning of 224 So. Summer from R-2 single family dwelling to C-2 general commercial.
- passed resolution of gratitude to William B. Rist for service on library board.
- passed resolution banning parking in business area from 2-5 a.m. daily for street cleaning or snow removal.
- accepted resignation of Jim Huttenmaier from Planning and Zoning Commission.

Ft. Robinson Discussion Is Scheduled For April 28

State Game Commission Director Willard Barbee said Monday a meeting will be held April 28 to discuss terms for turning over land for use in the proposed Ft. Robinson recreational complex.

Barbee said he will be meeting with federal officials about buildings and land now being used for the beef experiment station. The station will soon be moving to Hastings.

The meeting, he said, "will center on 'definite terms' for the relinquishment of the facilities."

"They will begin to turn over buildings to us in large numbers this summer," Barbee said.

Last year a plan was unveiled which would call for a major development of the area as a tourist site and general recreation area. Cost has been estimated at $6 million.

Beatrice Council Refuses To Clear Air At Meetings

Beatrice — A decision was made in one of those smoke-filled rooms here Monday night: to let the room remain smoke-filled.

Dr. S. H. Shick, a chiropractor and councilman, proposed that smoking be prohibited during council sessions. One argument was that "the haze here is so objectionable to some people that they won't attend a meeting."

Several councilmen's pipes and cigarettes twitched nervously when Shick noted that "smoking has come under fire as being detrimental to good health." Mayor Bob Sargent's cigar glowed behind a smile at wording that he be "hereby directed to enforce this resolution."

"The council should be an example to children who appear at meetings," said Shick, an avowed non-smoker. "and some discipline should therefore be exhibited."

There was no spoken opposition, only the blowing of a few smoke rings. But when the smoke cleared — slightly — the vote was 5-3 against.

Nebraska ETV is doing more than providing quality instructional programs to schools and interesting and informative productions for family viewing. It also is making a considerable impact on Nebraska's economy by attracting grants from outside funding sources.

According to a statement issued Thursday by Nebraska ETV Network General Manager Jack McBride, more than three quarters of a million dollars have flowed into the state in the last 12 months alone, and more than four million dollars since 1954 when ETV first went on the air.

A total of eight separate grants have been awarded to Nebraska ETV, McBride said, most of them for the production of programs.

Five Professors Vie For New NU Faculty Position

Five professors at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln have been nominated for election to the new office of president of the faculty senate.

Faculty members will be casting ballots during the next two weeks.

The candidates are Philip A. Crowl, chairman of the history department; James A. Lake, professor of law; Wesley C. Meierhenry, chairman of adult and continuing education; Wallace C. Peterson, chairman of the economics department; and Glenn Vollmar, chairman of the agricultural economics department.

The president of the Lincoln campus and outstate activities, now Joseph Sosnick, has served as president of the faculty senate since reorganization of the NU system provided for a campus president.

Previously, the chancellor had served in the post.

Under a reorganization approved by the faculty senate, however, the senate will have its own executive officer elected from faculty ranks.

Douglas, Sarpy Senators Eye Redistricting

Douglas and Sarpy County senators met Monday and put finishing touches on prospective legislative district boundaries under Unicameral reapportionment.

Most of the decisions had been made last week but there remained a question of which district in Douglas County would overlap into Sarpy County to pick up an excess population of about 5,000 in Sarpy County.

It was agreed that Sen. Richard Proud's district should overlap the county line to pick up the La Vista community in Sarpy County.

Toddy Catching On

Kuala Lumpur (AP) — A liquor industry spokesman said three Asian countries and some European nations are interested in importing Malaysian toddy, a liquor distilled from the bud of the coconut tree.

Sarpy County. The alternative would have been to make the new district being created in Douglas County the one to overlap.
Because of population shifts shown by the 1970 census, Douglas County's senators will be increased from 12 to 13, and Sarpy County will get two senators instead of the present one.
Sen. George Syas of Omaha, who has been a leader in the reapportionment effort, said the population disparity between largest and smallest districts in Douglas County amounts to only slightly more than two per cent.

City Council Hears 70th, A Case Again

Proponents of the controversial 70th and A rezoning called the proposed $4 million office park and townhouse complex "the highest and best use" for the land in a public hearing before the City Council Monday.

But opponents, mostly area residents, renewed their complaint that approval of the rezoning would lead to unwanted commercialization of their basically residential area as well as traffic problems.

The rezoning matter again was discussed in length, the council having heard the pros and cons once before, during what ended up as the longest council session in many a month.

Hoped Not Political
Lloyd Marti, representing the applicants, said he hoped the rezoning — to permit four office buildings and 44 townhouses — would not become a political football.

He said that the zoning request for a service station has been eliminated since first presented to the City Council, at which time a majority of the council approved the rezoning. The mayor subsequently vetoed the zoning with the council unable to override the veto.

Marti said the land, now zoned for A-1 Single Family development, the most restrictive for homes, is "definitely suitable for the allowed use."

"I don't care whether you are liberal or conservative (on zoning) but this offers the highest and best use for this tract," he said.

Restrictions Okay
Marti said his clients were again willing to have restrictive covenants placed on the deed to the land requiring development as he had proposed, with the city to have enforcement rights.

But City Atty. Dick Wood said the city has no authority to enforce the covenants since it cannot agree to grant the zoning as consideration for the restrictive covenants.

Marti said in his opinion the city could enforce the covenants, adding that one member of the legal department agreed with him when he was before the Planning Commission.

Petition Presented
Speaking for many of the opponents was Ted Roessler, a Lincolnshire resident who presented the council with signatures of 460 area residents against the rezoning.

Roessler, representing the newly formed Citizens for City Planning, said the purpose of the group is to promote orderly growth and zoning that preserves the residential character of the area.

He said membership in the organization is steadily growing.

Approximately 60 persons in opposition attended the public hearing.

Planning Urged
Among those in opposition was Jack Stiles, executive director of the St. Elizabeth Health Center, who said he felt there should be a general plan developed for the area and not the present piecemeal development.

"This is not responsible planning," Stiles said, adding that health planning has been no more satisfactory than city planning.

Marti replied that St. Elizabeth's earlier had not opposed the project even when the filling station was in the plans.

Street Closing
Also occupying a considerable portion of the council's time during the marathon four-hour meeting was a public hearing on closing 39th St. north of Sheridan Blvd. a short distance. The closing produced mixed feelings among area residents.

Lay Group Supports Union College Building

Support came this weekend for the building of the new administration and classroom building at Union College for $375,000 from the Union College Advancement Association.

The association, composed of laymen and women, pledged the amount over a five-year period, the expected date of completion for the new building. Ground breaking is anticipated for the spring of 1973.

R. H. Nightingale, chairman of the college's board of trustees, presented the plan to finance the project to the group of laymen and informed the association that the Seventh-day Adventist Church organization in the Union College territory has already underwritten the remaining of the $1.7 million necessary for construction.

The present administration building at the college was built in 1890 for $161,000. Renovation costs have been estimated at $900,000 and has not been considered feasible, college officials said.

Union College Advancement Association officers re-elected were: Lavern Nicolay, Denver, Colo., president; Rueben Schiske, Jamestown, N.D., vice president and Asa Christensen, Lincoln, secretary. Robert Robinson, business manager of Union College, was named treasurer for the association.

Felony Burglary Charges Filed In Break-In At Mr. B's

A felony charge of burglary with explosives which carries a penalty of 20 years to life imprisonment was filed in Lancaster County Court Monday against Edward Kennedy in connection with an early Monday break-in at Mr. B's IGA at 48th and Van Dorn.

Kennedy, 40, requested a preliminary hearing which was set May 5 by Judge Ralph Slocum.

The complaint specifically charged Kennedy with breaking and entering by night Mr. B's IGA and attempting to open a safe contained therein by attempted use of acetylene gas, oxyacetylene gas and oxygen with intent to steal.

According to Deputy County Attorney Robert Gibson, police found instrumentalities including acetylene torches inside the store which "gave the impression that several individuals were about to break into the safe."

Gibson said further investigation is continuing and police reported they are seeking two other individuals in connection with the incident.

According to police reports, the police department received a call from a resident of the area about 1 a.m. Monday and a first routine patrol check revealed nothing.

However, a subsequent check about an hour later revealed items stacked outside against the building and Kennedy was apprehended from the roof of the store, according to police reports.

York Hospital's Fund Application Okayed By State Board Of Health

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Health Monday approved the application of York General Hospital at York for fiscal 1971 federal Hill-Burton construction funds.

The action allocates between $450,000 and $600,000 to the York hospital in federal aid for construction of a new 145-bed facilities estimated to cost $2.4 million.

The State Hospital and Medical Facilities Advisory Council had recommended both York and Gordon Memorial Hospital at Gordon be allocated federal funds provided the Gordon application was found to be valid.

Never Reviewed
However, lengthy board discussion indicated that while the Gordon application had been approved by the Panhandle Health Planning Council, it had never been reviewed by the State Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

The Panhandle council had recommended Gordon's hospital capacity be increased from 27 to 46 beds, but Calista Cooper Hughes, state comprehensive health planning director, said the Panhandle unit had never applied for state recognition as a regional health planning agency.

In referring the Gordon application back to the advisory council, the board directed the council "to work diligently" with Gordon to perfect its application, which requested federal funds to construct a 47-bed hospital estimated to cost $1.1 million.

'York Guided'
"It appears that York was guided step by step by the state agency," said Board Chairman E. C. Bergstraeser of Blair, "but it doesn't appear this was done for the Gordon application."

Bergstraeser suggested that "something appears wrong internally in the health department reference to its division of hospitals and medical facilities."

Gordon hospital officials contended their application had met all the stated criteria in the state hospital plan, and expressed surprise it lacked review by the central health planning office.

The health board also called for an explanation by the state comprehensive health planning agency regarding its relationship with the regional health planning councils.

The board routinely approved the advisory council's recommendations for allocation to West Nebraska General Hospital at Scottsbluff of fiscal 1971 diagnostic and treatment funds and remaining Hill-Burton construction balances due St. Elizabeth Health Center of Lincoln and Mary Lanning Hospital of Hastings.

In other action, the board was advised that the Nebraska Soil and Water Commission has been designated by the governor as the official state planning agency for pollution control and the Department of Health has been named the official agency for federal grants involving mental retardation and related services.

Industry Commended
T. A. Filipi, state environmental health engineer, commended industry for its cooperation with the State Water Pollution Control Council.

"No known industry is currently dumping untreated wastes into Nebraska streams," Filipi said in naming several industries that have completed or are completing their own treatment facilities.

Knudsen New President Of Lincoln Bar

The Lincoln Bar Association Monday elected attorney Richard Knudsen its new president.

Knudsen, who has practiced in Lincoln since graduating from the University of Nebraska College of Law in 1950, said he hopes the bar association will become more active in civic affairs.

He said it is important in today's world for such organizations to take definite positions on issues and to provide leadership in areas of public concern.

"It is essential that lawyers and bar associations provide needed leadership in today's troubled social scene," he explained.

Other officers elected at the association's annual business meeting were Bert L. Overcash, vice president; Paul L. Douglas, secretary; and Richard D. Wilson, treasurer.

Three men were elected to three-year terms on the association's Board of Trustees. They were Edward F. Carter Jr., J. Arthur Curtiss and Joseph Ginsburg.

Knudsen announced that the Nebraska State Bar Association will hold its annual meeting in Lincoln on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. This will be the first state bar meeting in Lincoln in more than 20 years.

Smokers Have No Argument

The people with the least valid arguing point against a new Nebraska fieldhouse financed through an increase in the cigarette tax would have to be the people who wake up every morning with a cough.

Those who argue against the fieldhouse because it's going to cost them an extra nickel a pack in their devoted drive toward acquiring cancer, very likely would be paying that extra nickel in the near future, new fieldhouse or not.

Lincoln Sen. Luedtke's LB87, in its original form, called for a three-cent hike in the cigarette tax to finance the proposed new state office building.

Unless those smokers, who are now complaining about having to also finance a new fieldhouse have been using different machines to pluck their quarters, nickels and dimes in than we've ever seen, it was going to cost them another nickel, anyway.

LB87, in its original form, likely would have puffed its way through the Legislature with hardly any debate since in all the hubbub over the amended bill, the state office building has hardly been mentioned.

And we'd like to see one of those smokers, who is complaining, show us a machine that will accept pennies.

Vendors Vs. Fieldhouse

If the three-cent hike solely for the state office building had passed with little notice and as we said before it likely would have, you smokers would still be shelling out another nickel.

But the other two cents of that nickel would have been going to the cigarette vendor instead of to a new fieldhouse.

With the volume of business he's doing, the vendor hardly needed another two cents profit on each package that drops from his machines.

So, smokers, what's your argument now?

Aside from the smokers, the primary opposition to the new fieldhouse is coming from priority-minded folks, who are claiming there are things that are needed worse than a fieldhouse.

But where were these people when Luedtke's bill came up in committee where it was amended to include the fieldhouse proposal?

'Wish I'd Thought Of That'

These people are a little like the lazy inventor, who has yet to come up with an invention, but who continues to sit back and as other inventions are patented laments, "Wish I'd have thought of that."

And those who would put the added revenue into the general fund, promising to dish it out for capital improvements from there, are like the guy who doesn't have a savings account, but keeps promising himself, "I'll put five dollars each week in a piggy bank."

That piggy bank has yet to see its first five dollar bill. Omaha Sen. George Syas has the best response to those general fund advocates. "I've been down here for 20 years and the only way to get anything done is to earmark it."

And that block of Omaha senators, who are so rabidly opposed to the fieldhouse idea might be reminded that the Nebraska Athletic Department has yet to receive its first dime in tax funds while people from one end of Nebraska to another, not only are keeping UNO going with their tax money, but also the UNO athletic department alive with their tax money.

And very few of these people either in Omaha or outside of Omaha really have any interest in UNO, but they do have an interest in the University of Nebraska.

Many Omaha senators' interest in the State of Nebraska and its people seems to stop at the Omaha city limits. They are fortunate that the rest of the state was a bit more broad-minded when UNO was in trouble and needed bailing out.

Help For State Fair

Another key point in the fieldhouse proposal is that it's a way the state can help the State Fair, something the lawmakers have been reluctant to do directly.

Year after year, the State Fair is sponsored by the horse race meeting and horse racing has put more tax money into the general fund than has been appropriated back to the State Fair.

If the fieldhouse proposal passes, the State Fair would receive at least some money from either purchase or lease of the land by the university for the site on which to build the fieldhouse.

This money could be at least a start toward renovating a State Fairgrounds that everyone would have to agree is in dire need of renovating.

Another factor to be considered, which may seem small to some, but which is big to thousands of high school basketball fans across the state, is the State High School Basketball Tournament.

This annual March festival long ago outgrew the present NU Coliseum and this year because of a State Fire Marshall's ruling, many fans were left standing outside.

This is a factor which should be of particular interest to out-state senators, who represent many a small town that empties in mid-March every year for the trip to Lincoln. These high school basketball teams and their fans deserve something better, too.

The pluses are many for a new fieldhouse, the minuses are few.

Baby Ball, Amajewel Quick Juveniles At Fonner

... 'TAKE THE LEAD AND RUN' STRATEGY PAYS OFF IN STAKES RACE

By MARK GORDON Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — Both Buster Carrell and Orville Kemling agree that there's only one way for a horse to win a 4-furlong chase — go to the front and stay there.

Carrell, who trains Baby Ball, and Kemling, who trains Amajewel, watched their prize two-year-olds Monday capture the first and second divisions, respectively of the 16th running of the Fonner Park Juvenile Stakes.

The wins in the divided allowance stakes for two-year-old Nebraska-breds provided their owners each with $3,905 of the $7,100 purse.

"I just figured we'd have to get in front to win," said Carrell of his chestnut gelding. "When we trailed early, I knew we had a chance because we were staying up there."

Kemling's Hasty Mister led going into the stretch, but Baby Ball triumphed by three-quarters of a length in racing to a :46.35 clocking. Baby Ball, ridden by Ray Correa, returned $17.50, $6.00 and $4.50, while Hasty Mister paid $3.20 and $2.60 and Angel Page returned $3.00.

"I raised his grandmother and his mother," said owner Mrs. Sadie L. Foley of Hay Springs. "We've have seven horses and everyone has been a stakes winner."

She has had three other two-year-old stakes winners — Pack O' Gifts swept the 1966 Fonner Park Special Stakes, Pram captured a futurity stakes at Atokad and Mr. No Hurry, also guided by Correa, took a futurity stakes in Winnipeg.

The victory boosted Baby Ball's earnings to $3,743 from her five starts while the place horses returned $1,420 and show horses $852 to the owners.

In the second division, Amajewel, ridden by Fred Ecoffey, survived a foul claim to win by half a length over Aye Jay Aye and Distuneful. Amajewel zipped to a :46.25 time in raising her lifetime earnings to $5,025 in three starts at Fonner.

"In a half-mile race you want to get to the front as fast as possible," said Kemling. "There's really not much strategy involved — it's just nice to have a horse with that much speed."

The 3,840 patrons watched the chestnut filly rip to its fastest career time — only 2-5 of a second off the track record. She returned $5.00, $3.60 and $2.40 while Aye Jay Aye paid $6.00 and $3.00 and Distuneful showed for $2.40.

Aye Jay Aye's rider, Jerry Engle, claimed the winner interfered with his brown colt in the far turn, but after viewing the race, Fonner stewards disallowed the objection.

"She's one of the most promising fillies up here," said owner Paul Kemling of Aurora. "Any time you have a stakes win it has to be the highlight of a horse's career."

Kemling said the stakes win was the first for the stud horse, Vaneburg. He added that Amajewel has been nominated for all two-year-old stakes races at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The daily double coupling Dark Mist and Whoo Rube returned $550.20—the largest payoff of the Grand Island meet.

—WORLD CHAMPION KNICKS ELIMINATED IN NBA PLAYOFFS—

Bullets End Two Years Of Frustration, 93-91

New York (AP) — Fred Carter's decisive jump shot ended two years of frustration for the Baltimore Bullets as they eliminated the defending champion New York Knicks from the National Basketball Association playoffs with a dramatic, 93-91, victory Monday night.

Carter's basket with 1:08 to play put the Bullets ahead, 93-89 and they clung desperately to the edge in the final seconds to win the best-of-7 Eastern Conference final series, four games to three.

The victory put the Bullets into the championship series against the Milwaukee Bucks, the Western winner, starting Wednesday night in Milwaukee in the first game of another best-of-7 affair.

The Knicks, who had eliminated the Bullets in the playoffs the past two years, took the game to the final second after Walt Frazier's basket shortly after Carter's made the score, 93-91.

After Dave DeBusschere of the Knicks and Carter traded missed shots, Gus Johnson of the Bullets was called for traveling and New York had the ball with 11 seconds to go. But Bill Bradley's desperation, off-balance shot from the corner fell short.

Earl Monroe, whose seven points in the final quarter kept the Bullets ahead, except for one brief moment, finished with 26 points. Jack Marin added 20.

It was Monroe's basket and a rebound by Marin with 1:48 to play that put the Bullets ahead for good, 91-88.

This is the first time the Bullets have made the NBA championship finals since 1948.

Dick Barnett topped the Knicks with 26 points. An aching Willis Reed, troubled throughout the series with a painful shoulder and needing two pain-killer shots in his knee for this game, scored 24.

The Bullets, beating the Knicks for the first time in Madison Square Garden during the series, fell behind, 21-19, after one quarter, but Barnett's scoring shot the Knicks ahead, 45-38, as the deafening, near hysterical capacity crowd of 19,500 went wild.

However, the Bullets pulled within 47-43 by intermission in the grim, all-out defensive struggle, a trait that marked the series.

The lead changed five times in the third quarter before Baltimore sneaked ahead, 54-

COURT HEARS CASE

... Ali Entitled To Draft Immunity?

(C) Washington Star

Washington — A top justice department lawyer told the Supreme Court today that Muhammad Ali was not a pacifist and that the boxer was opposed only to "white men's wars."

Solicitor General Irwin N. Griswold urged the justices not to act as a "super draft board" and give the former heavyweight boxing champion immunity to the draft and a chance to avoid a five-year prison term for draft evasion.

Griswold's argument faced heavy questioning from Justice Potter Stewart, who also rebuked Griswold for refusing to discuss the legal issues the court had agreed to analyze in Ali's case.

However, it was not clear whether Stewart's attitude reflected the views of any other court members.

Stewart's position could make it difficult for Griswold to win over at least four justices, the minimum number he needs in order to keep Ali's draft evasion conviction intact.

One of the court's nine members, Justice Thurgood Marshall, has disqualified himself. Thus, if the court splits 4 to 4, the lower court decision against Ali would be left undisturbed.

Ali's lawyer, Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago, urged the justices today to find that Ali was entitled to draft immunity as a conscientious objector because he will not fight with weapons in a war.

Eskridge said he "sensed the prejudice against the Black Muslim religion" in the Justice Department's attack on Ali's claim to be religiously opposed to war.

He referred to a 1966 Justice Department letter that dismissed Ali's religious claim of opposition to war as no more than a "political and racial argument."

At today's hearing, Griswold insisted repeatedly that the Justice Department had never denied that Ali's views against military service were religious.

But he also insisted that Ali was a conscientious objector only to some kinds of war, and not all wars, and therefore was not entitled to a draft exemption.

Ali, Griswold contended, "just doesn't want to fight the white men's wars and I can understand that."

He said that there were "strong racial undertones" in Ali's views against war.

NU Line-Up Switches Made On Look-See Basis

... WOLFE, WHITE GIVEN SHOT AT NO. 1 OFFENSIVE TACKLE SPOTS

By HAL BROWN Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's first offensive unit had a new look at tackles Monday as the Huskers resumed spring football workouts after a nine-day break for spring vacation, but head coach Bob Devaney pointed out the switches were basically of a look-see nature rather than signifying demotions for the former first stringers.

In another switch involving a member of the offensive unit, sophomore Greg Garson, who had been running with the No. 2 unit at flanker, was being given a look-see in the defensive backfield.

"That's an experiment," Devaney offered. "We're not giving up on him on offense, but we want to see what he can do on defense."

Devaney said he planned some contact for his Huskers on Wednesday with a full-scale scrimmage slated for Saturday.

"We've got Linder back where we want him, now," Devaney said of the move of the Plattsmouth sophomore back to split end.

Killebrew Proves He's Back To Usual Ways

... GIANTS STREAK TO NINTH STRAIGHT

By Associated Press

Harmon Killebrew was back to his usual ways Monday as he drove in six runs in the Minnesota Twins, 9-8, victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Harmful Harmon got his first two RBI with a first-inning single. He added the third on a second-inning ground out but saved his best for last as he smashed a three-run home run in the third.

Despite Killebrew's one-man show, the Royals came back for seven runs in the fifth inning, including a grand slam home run by Bob Oliver. Cookie Rojas had three RBI for Kansas City.

In the annual Patrois Day game in Boston the Cleveland

Indians' Roy Foster hit a two-run homer in the 13th inning to defeat the Red Sox, 5-4.

The Indians got their first three runs on a home run by former teammate Ken Harrelson.

The Red Sox came back with George Scott driving in two runs and Rico Petrocelli one. Boston also got a single run in the 13th when Luis Aparicio was walked with the bases loaded forcing in a run.

The San Francisco Giants won their ninth game in a row with a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The decision increases the Giants' lead in the National League West to three games.

Dick Dietz drove in two runs with singles in the first and third innings. A bases-loaded walk to George Foster in the fifth gave the Giants their third run and Bobby Bonds hit his fifth home run of the season for the final tally.

Billy Grabarkewitz doubled home two eighth-inning runs with his first hit of the season in a late west coast game as the Los Angeles Dodgers rallied to hand San Diego its sixth straight loss, 3-2.

Bachman Worried About Rain

... POSTPONED GAMES BOTHER NWU DIAMOND BOSS

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Rain — the word almost makes Nebraska Wesleyan baseball coach Ron Bachman shudder and he has good reason to worry.

His Plainsmen are leading the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference with a 3-0 record but one conference game has already been rained out, the second game of a Midland doubleheader, and must be made up. The re-scheduling of postponed games is what bothers Bachman.

"We've got quite a few games scheduled for this season and we must complete this schedule by the end of the school year," Bachman said.

"If we get very many games postponed, it'll put us in a pinch. We'd then be playing about every other day and this is rough on a team."

Bachman said at the start of the season NWU's pitching must hold up if the Plainsmen are to do well this year and he still believes this.

"So far our pitching has been improving but a heavy schedule could wreck this," Bachman explained. "We'd like to play as many scheduled games as possible, hoping this will continue to help the pitching staff to improve."

In order to win the conference, we figure we'll have to win three of four games against Midland and Concordia." Dana and Concordia, favored to battle NWU for the conference title, have already played each other, splitting a doubleheader.

The Plainsmen have two games with Hastings and one with Midland in addition to twin bills with Dana and Concordia left on the conference schedule.

Today NWU takes on the University of Nebraska at Omaha in a nonconference doubleheader at Ralston with the starting times at 6 and 8 p.m. The Indians swept twin bills from Doane and Hastings over the weekend hiking their record to 10-5 while Wesleyan is 5-6.

Bachman indicated he'll start Steve McKelvey (1-2) in the first game and either Earl Nannen (2-0) or Mike Garlow (2-2) in the second game.

"We need both these games — the experience will do us good," Bachman said. "I just hope it doesn't you-know-what."

Blue Chips Pace Stock Market Rally

New York (U) — Interest in the blue-chip sector spearheaded a stock market rally Monday which carried the upswing into its third consecutive week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial blue-chip stocks climbed 8.64 points to 948.85.

However, advances held only a relatively small lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange. Of the 1,705 stocks traded, 790 advanced and 637 declined.

"Profit taking among selective investors kept the market from really taking off," said Newton Zinder, analyst with E. F. Hutton Co. Inc.

There were 194 new highs on the Big Board and 14 new lows.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks gained 0.23 to 57.29.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 2.2 to 328.9, a new 1971 high. Industrials rose 3.1, utilities up 0.3, and utilities were up 0.4.

Big Board volume slipped to 17.3 million shares, down from 18.2 million shares Friday.

Stocks were up in all categories except airlines, which were off, and metals, oil, and oil-related stocks, which were mixed.

Arlan Realty & Development was most active on the Big Board, closing up.

Fed Steer Prices Dip At Omaha

Omaha (U) — Cattle marketings in the midlands Monday increased just enough for cost-conscious buyers to lower the boom.

Values on fed steers and heifers pointed in a 50 to 75 cent lower direction under a cautious demand.

Cows made up a substantially higher portion of the increased run than usual and took their lumps right along with fed cattle, loading 50 cents for the most part.

Omaha unloads measured around 10,000 head, up from 7,000 a week ago and 6,300 a year ago.

A load of high-choice to prime 1,220 lb. steers was out front at 32.25. Choice in bulk down to 31.50, good down to 28, including 1,150-1,300 lb. holsteins at 28-29.

Toppy heifers grouped 32.10-32.35, choice mostly 31.00-32.00.

Desirable 550-650 lb. yearling feeder steers went out at 32.00-34.25.

Expanded marketings also tripped the hog market. Butchers ruled 25 to mostly 50 cents lower. Sows were mostly 25 cents lower.

Omaha unloads ran to around 13,000 head, up some 5,100 from a week ago with the 11-market handle some 17,000 heavier than last Monday. The marketings upsurge ran headlong into a sharp markdown in wholesale pork prices over the week end.

Most 200-240 lb. barrows and gilts cleared 15.75-16.50. Sows cleared 14.00-14.75 for 325-650 lbs.

Spring lambs turned 75 cents higher, old crops about steady in a lightly tested trade. Ewes quoted to 50-75 cents lower. Toppy 104 lb. new crop lambs 31.50.

Youth Conference Delegates Will Vote On Vietnam Issue

Estes Park, Colo. (AP) — Delegates to the White House Conference on Youth met Monday night to try to reach agreement on a policy statement regarding a heated issue: the Indochina war.

The task force that was drafting foreign policy resolutions had become so deeply embroiled in the Vietnam issue that it had decided to put the question before all the delegates at the Monday night meeting.

Nearly half the young people at the conference attended the meeting.

The results of the session, recorded on paper ballots covering 18 printed and several vocal proposals from the floor, will not be counted until midday Tuesday, an organizer of the meeting said.

Nixon Praised

The recommendations, in resolution form, included one praising Nixon and his administration for "rapid and positive response to initial Communist Chinese overtures."

It referred to the recent accepted invitation for the U.S. table tennis team to tour Red China, and subsequent indications of possible easing of trade restrictions.

Although one-third of the nearly 1,500 delegates here are adults, described as "people in power," the crowd that flocked through freezing cold and six inches of snow to the long-meeting hall was mostly youth delegates — those 14 through 25.

The foreign policy task force, composed of 50 adults and 100 youths from a cross-section of the country, solicited resolutions from other delegates during the day and said they would be placed before all interested delegates at the informal session.

U.S. involvement in Vietnam and its repercussions on the 10 fields of study here sparked heated discussion wherever the young people gathered on the snow-covered meeting site.

Issue Important

"All the delegations seem to be very strong on the Vietnam question," Chase said "so foreign relations thought it their responsibility to put the question before them."

The varying views on Vietnam ranged from support of President Nixon's policy of Vietnamization and gradual withdrawal to demands for immediate withdrawal.

Various splinter groups tried to make their views known among other delegates, but no one strong force appeared to be developing. Joint Efforts, a loose coalition of dissenting delegates, apparently disintegrated during the day from lack of support.

Gary Rosenthal of Tulsa, Okla., a member of the foreign relations task force, said: "There is perhaps an over preoccupation with Vietnam."

Nine Other Groups

In addition to foreign policy, he noted, there are nine other similar groups meeting to draft recommendations on such topics as drugs, the draft, poverty, unemployment and others.

"These problems are not unrelated to one another," he said.

On another subject, Rosenthal commented that many of the young people here distrust the White House.

"Many youths very cynically perceive the war the White House conducts foreign policy. On the other hand, they see a much closer link between public opinion and representative democracy and the Congress. If anything foreign policy should be sent back to the Congress," he said.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson told the delegates Sunday night that President Nixon and the highest level of government intended to take the conference's recommendations very seriously and promised that some of the conference's proposals would be implemented.

DOUBLY ATTRACTIVE

Theresa Terrell, left, of Washington, D. C., and Jean Kisselburgh of Fort Collins, Colo., lean from their window at Estes Park, Colo., to enjoy the mountain view. Watching either of these attractive young ladies is quite a view. Miss Kisselburgh, a senior at Colorado State, is working the switchboard at the YMCA "Camp of the Rockies." # City Cleanup Campaign To A Month And A Half

A city-wide cleanup campaign was expanded from a week to a month and a half at an organizational meeting Monday.

The drive to clean up the environment of the city will now be held from April 20 through May 31 with a steering committee appointed to coordinate cleanups in the different neighborhoods of the city.

Jack Carter, representing the refuse haulers association, said haulers would pick up the refuse from cleanups if placed along the curb in proper containers. Carter said there would be no extra charge for this service.

Heading the steering committee is Orville DeFrain, of the City-County Health Department division of environmental health.

DeFrain told the group of interested citizens that complaints to his office total approximately 200 a month and that this was more than could be reasonably

Agency Asks Final Request For Bus Aid

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Monday he has been informed by the Transportation Department's Urban Mass Transit Administration that the city should proceed with filing a final application for its capital grant to acquire a bus system.

W. B. Hurd, assistant administrator of the federal agency, said that the city's preliminary application has been reviewed and that more detailed explanatory material is needed now in some areas.

Justification of certain items was also requested.

Purpose of the preliminary application is to avoid the cost of preparing a full application in case the application is determined to be ineligible or funds not available.

A planning department spokesman said that apparently the city's application has met with approval in both respects.

Hansen Says Function Real Council Issue

City Council candidates Dick Hansen Monday evening told the Kiwanis Club that the real issue in the campaign is "under the noses of all of the candidates and they have failed to recognize it."

That issue, Hansen said, is "What is the function of the City Council?"

He said the present council acts only as a "screening board" for department budgets but with interest and research "the council could and should present legislation that is responsive to the needs and demands of the people, rather than paper that poses only a dollar and dime picture."

Hansen went on to say that the council today "is reactionary when it finds itself dealing with volatile issues such as recent zoning battles and last ditch stands by the citizenry."

He said he felt that the present candidates have little intention of fulfilling the obligations of the office, while the present council's attitude is "simply in line with what has always gone on in city government."

"It is a simple matter of reorganizing our minds to the problem at hand, to be responsive to the electorate, to see the day-to-day needs of the city and with some imagination, forge a program for a better Lincoln," the attorney said.

Mayor Planning More Junk Car Removal Efforts

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Monday he plans to continue the city's program to remove illegally abandoned cars from all sections of the city.

The program, called Operation Goodbye Junker, has already removed 1,600 cars.

The mayor said the nationally recognized program has helped to eliminate urban blight and health hazards in the community and is one of several efforts he has supported in environmental pollution control.

"There is still work to be done in the car removal program which has been a cooperative program between the city, private volunteer efforts and others," said the mayor.

Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum continued the hearing on agreement of counsel for Urbanec and the county attorney's office.

Preliminary hearings for five others of the nine originally charged are set for Wednesday.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Tuesday

Cancer youngsters often write me about their school grades. The grades are erratic, going up and down. It is important for parents to realize that children are not born with this zodiacal sign are really interested, but very restless. Some educators take birth dates into consideration when assessing the potential of a child. More educators should become familiar with astrology.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Much that occurs may be shrouded in mystery. Be wary of one who speaks only of the record. Some facts must be for the record. Otherwise, you may find yourself standing alone.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some of your fondest desires can be fulfilled. You have backing. Go ahead. Refuse to be discouraged by one of little faith. You have knockout punch. You can put across unique plan, program.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Obtain valid hint from Taurus message. Stress is on performance. What you do now will be appreciated by one in position of authority. Spotlight on potential and promotion. You make solid advance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What you thought was part of past may, like legendary phoenix, rise again. Keep mind open. Some may startle with unusual news. Refuse. Don't cast first stone. You'll get fair share.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Lie low. Observe rather than assert. Be flexible. Sagittarius individual will aid. Key is expansion. Refuse to stand still. You must time moves. Take it easy, but go forward.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasize practicality. Don't play games with security. One who tempts, promises is not for you. Know this and respond accordingly. Have fun, but don't risk capital. You will understand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You can show off best qualities. Good lunar aspect coincides now with creativity, love, intensified relations with opposite sex. You get green light from one you admire, respect.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Home, environment, relations with family members are spotlighted. Build for security. Refuse to heed siren call of irresponsibility. You get proposal which deserves careful consideration.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be versatile. Realize that ideas can be numerous but total concept is special. You will understand. Neighbor is likely to tell tall story. Maintain sense of humor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be aware of what is of real substance. Don't fall for fast talker. Ask to see, hear and feel facts. By being realistic, you gain respect and money. Know this and proceed accordingly.

State Supreme Court Rejects Rehearing Request In Pope Case

By United Press International
The Nebraska Supreme Court decided Monday not to grant a rehearing on its ruling in the Duane Earl Pope case.

State Supreme Court Clerk George Turner said the decision was handed down without comment.

In February, the state's high court handed down a decision to uphold the Deuel County District Court conviction of the former McPherson, Kan., college athlete.

He was sentenced to die in the electric chair June 25 for the deaths of three persons in connection with the 1965 Big Springs bank robbery.

This apparently ends the battle in the state court system. At the time the motion for rehearing was filed, one of Pope's attorneys, former Nebraska Gov. Robert Crosby, said if the motion was denied it would clear the way for an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Crosby and Pope's other attorney, University of Nebraska law professor, Wallace Rudolph, filed for the rehearing of the February decision saying the high court did not clearly decide the issue of double jeopardy.

Pope had been tried by a federal district court in connection with the robbery, and was sentenced to death.

The Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals later set aside the death sentence and returned the case for resentencing. He was then given life imprisonment.
